FEAR 300 OR MORE LOST IN SHIP TRAGEDY

FRENCH MOTORSHIP IS DESTROYED AT SEA BY FIRE

Aden, Arabia, May 17 (AP)—Shipping agencies feared that more than 300 persons may have perished aboard the blazing French motorship Georges Philippar off Cape Guardafui, Italian Somaliland, as 254 haggard, smoke-grimed survivors arrived here today.

The British steamers Contractor and Mahsud brought the first refugees, who reported that up to 100 passengers were trapped in their burning cabins yesterday. Another 420 survivors were understood to be on the French liner Andre Lebon, which took them off the Soviet tanker Sovietskaia Neft.

Shipping experts said they believed at least 1,000 persons were aboard the lost vessel and that unless they were picked up by ships which have not yet reported by wireless or have reached the African coast in boats, they must have met a horrible death.

Lifeboats Destroyed

The survivors who arrived today told of harrowing scenes that ended the ship's maiden voyage in tragedy.

The refugees told of the ship's dreadful last hours, as the passengers surged around the lifeboats amid swirling clouds of smoke that rose soon after the fire was discovered. The ship was off Cape Guardafui, Italian Somaliland, on its way back to Marseilles from the Far East.

They emphasized the extraordinary rapidity with which the flames spread after their discovery early in the morning. The majority of the passengers were awakened from their sleep and hustled on to the deck to find themselves immediately in an inferno of smoke and heat.

Although the captain kept the vessel's head to the wind a number of lifeboats soon were destroyed and it was impossible for the passengers to make their way to the stations allotted them in the boat drill. The supply of rafts and lifeboats appeared, however, to have been ample.

PRIDE OF SERVICE

London, May 17 (AP)—The captain of the burned French motorship Georges Philippar was quoted by the London Evening Standard today as saying that approximately 100 of the vessel's 900 passengers and crew were missing after the fire yesterday in the Arabian Sea.

Many were injured and scores suffered from shock as the flames swept over the new ship, pride of the French Far Eastern service, which was returning from her maiden voyage to China and other parts of the Orient.

NOT INCENDIARY

Paris, May 17 (AP)—Officials of the line that owned the French motorship Georges Philippar said today the fire that wrecked the vessel yesterday off the African coast started several days ago in freight holds and apparently was not of incendiary character.

Reports received by police that terrorists set the fire were declared to be unfounded by Adrian Monge, director of the Compagnie Des Messageries Maritimes, the ship's owners.

BRUCKER SIGNS HIGHWAY BILL

Weight Tax Revenues to Be Returned to Counties

Lansing, May 17 (AP)—The Horton highway finance bill providing for the return to the counties of the entire automobile weight tax starting in 1933, was signed by Governor Brucker today.

The act will double the amount of state highway aid in every county. The estimated revenue from automobile license plates next year is $19,000,000, all of which will be returned. The counties now get an amount equal to one-half the weight tax. One-eighth of the revenue, or about $2,500,000, will be divided equally among the 83 counties. The balance will be distributed in proportion to automobile registrations. In addition the state will pay $2,500,000 for the absorption of township roads, on a mileage basis.

Once the county allocation has been made the funds are definitely marked for application to covert obligations and other debts. After all mandatory obligations are met the balance is divided between the cities, villages and the county as a whole on the basis of population. Companion bills, previously approved by the governor, abolish county road taxes save to meet old obligations or in cases where two-thirds of the board of supervisors consent to a levy. In the latter event the tax may not exceed one-fourth of the present statutory limit.

While the increased state aid will not be paid until next year, enactment of the measure at this

One Killed, 2 Hurt By Falling Steel

Ionia, Mich., May 17 (AP)—One man was killed and two were injured, one critically, when crushed today under 18 tons of steel which fell without warning on a bridge construction project.

The men, Francis McArthur, 32, of South Ionia, who was killed outright, William Peterman, 25, of Ionia, and Sandy Jones, 43, Grand Rapids negro foreman of the work crew, were placing 75-foot "I-beams" in the Cleveland street bridge being built across Grand river west of here.

McArthur and Peterman were in direct path of the beams as they toppled sideways. Jones was injured attempting to shove Peterman out of the way. Peterman is in Community hospital here suffering a fractured pelvis and crushed right leg. Jones returned to work after having leg injuries dressed.

STORY UNTRUE IN ALL WAYS, TELLS POLICE

PERSONS NAMED BY HIM CREATURES OF OWN MIND

BY FRANCIS A. JAMIESON
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Hopewell, N. J., May 17 (AP)—A startling confession by John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk, Va., "intermediary," that he had perpetrated an "enormous deception" in the search for the slain son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was made today to police.

The 44-year-old boat builder sat down to a typewriter just before dawn and tapped out his own story of faking mysterious contacts with the supposed kidnapers of the child.

The boats and all the people to whom Curtis has been referring were creations of his own mind, police were told by the manufacturer, who so captured the confidence of Colonel Lindbergh himself that the latter was with him the night the child's body was found.

"I honestly believe that for the last 7 or 8 months I have not been myself due to financial troubles," Curtis said in his signed confession.

"I was apparently brought back to my senses by my telephone conversation with my wife this afternoon when she told me of the troubles she was having and how the children missed me, also by my conversation with Inspector Harry Walsh."

Asks Forgiveness

He declared representatives of two newspapers, one of which he named as the New York Herald-Tribune and the other as the News, and the Fox Film company had offered him money for his "knowledge of the Lindbergh case or picture of the baby."

"The matter was brought to my attention during a conversation and due to what I now believe was a distorted mind by brooding over it, I became insane on the subject for the time being, which caused me to create the story in its entirety which was untrue in every respect," he said.

"I never knew such people ple that I named to Col. Lindbergh. They were creatures of a distorted mind with the exception of Marie Truesdale who had no connection with the crime.

"I exceedingly regret that I caused Col. Lindbergh and others any inconvenience and wish it were in my power to correct my wrong.

"In justice to my wife and two children, I trust that it is in the power of Col. Lindbergh to forgive the inconvenience, worry and injustice I did him in his time of grief.

This statement has been brought about by the realization of the wrong I have done."

"Submitted: John Hughes Curtis.

"Witnesses: Lieut. A. T. Keaton and Inspector Harry Walsh, made at 4:35 a. m., May 17."

Curtis said in his signed confession.

"I was apparently brought back to my senses by my telephone conversation with my wife this afternoon when she told me of the troubles she was having and how the children missed me, also by my conversation with Inspector Harry Walsh.

"I desire to state that my remarks about the newspapers are true and can be verified, this is in reference to my story about Mr. Haskell and Mr. Wilcox of the Herald Tribune.

"Mr. Lee of the News and Mr. Twin and Fox offered me money for my knowledge of the Lindbergh case or pictures of the baby.

"The matter was brought to my attention during a conversation and due to what I now believe was a distored mind by brooding over it, I became insane on the subject for the time being, which caused me to create the story in its entirety which was untrue in every respect.

"I never knew such people that I named to Col. Lindbergh, they were creatures of a distorted mind with the exception of Marie Truesdale who had no connection with the crime.

"I exceedingly regret that I caused Col. Lindbergh and others any inconvenience and wish it were in my power to correct my wrong.

"In justice to my wife and two children, I trust that it is in the power of Col. Lindbergh to forgive the inconvenience, worry and injustice I did him in his time of grief.

"This statement has been brought about by the realization of the wrong I have done.

Official Text of Curtis' Confession

Hopewell, N. J., May 11 (AP)—The official text of the confession of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk "intermediary" in the Lindbergh case follows:

"Made of my own hand and own free will. Referring to the two statements made previously by me in regard to Lindbergh case. At the present time I am sane but I honestly believe that for the last seven or eight months I have not been myself due to financial troubles.

"I was apparently brought back to my senses by my telephone conversation with my wife this afternoon when she told me of the troubles she was having and how the

TROOPS QUELL MOB DISORDERS

Hindus and Moslems of India Quieted After Four Day Riot

Bombay, India, May 17 (AP)—Hindu and Moslem mobs were quieted tonight by the rifle fire of British troops after four days of communal rioting that took a toll of 88 lives and wounded at least 850 persons.

Twenty-four were killed today and 200 injured before the soldiers, who had been rushed here from Poona, restored order.

But the strife between the two hostile races meanwhile had spread to Calcutta, where police were forced to fire on a mob. Several constables and about twenty civilians were injured.

The trouble at Calcutta apparently began when Hindus stationed on housetops stoned a Moslem religious procession. The Moslems retaliated.

The royal Irish fusiliers fired tonight on a mob of Moslems in Bombay who were looting and burning shops in the Bhendy Bazaar, the center of the worst of the riots. All was quiet afterward for the first time since Saturday, when a Moslem group first attacked some Hindu youths.

For the most part during the day the populace shuddered indoors as the blood continued to flow in the shambles of several Bombay districts. British tanks, also rushed from Poona, patrolled the streets. Garbage and refuse, unattended for days, rotted in the streets, causing an abominable stench.

Groups of more than five persons were prohibited by a curfew order from congregating in any spot.

Coast Guard Chiefs Thought Curtis Fake

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The hoax perpetrated on the suffering Lindberghs by John Hughes Curtis aroused indignation in Washington today from President down.

It developed that from the first coast guard authorities had doubted the fantastic tale told by the Norfolk shipbuilder, but nevertheless spent thousands of dollars sending government craft out of the normal cruising territory on the slim chance of turning up something.

When the most thorough combing of the water and search by air from Massachusetts to southern Virginia failed to produce a lead to such a craft, these officials became convinced of deception. But they went on, just the same.

Montana Democrats Go To Roosevelt

Helena, Mont., May 17 (AP)—Montana Democrats today instructed delegates to their national convention to work for a prohibition repeal plank while Republicans, also in state meeting, advocated a national referendum on the liquor question.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York was pledged Montana's eight Democratic presidential convention votes.

President Hoover received endorsement of the Republican convention and the pledge of its 11 delegates for his nomination.

Gold Star Mothers Embark for France

New York, May 17 (AP)—Eighty-one mothers of soldiers who fell in the World War sailed on the Leviathan tonight, resuming the summer pilgrimages of "Gold Star" mothers to the battlefield cemeteries of France, as guests of the United States government.

DEAN SAYS HE KNEW NOTHING ABOUT FRAUD

BURRAGE DECLINES TO COMMENT ON SITUATION

BY FRANK E. TAYLOR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Norfolk, Va., May 17 (AP)—Amazement, incredulity and matter of fact expectancy were the swift following expressions here today to the startling revelation that John Hughes Curtis had confessed he dealt only with phantoms of the imagination in his lengthy "negotiations" in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

"I don't know what to make of it at all," the Episcopal dean said. "Can it be true? Are you sure you are right?

Burrage Is Silent

"I am still relying on Mr. Curtis. He has been under a great strain for the past two months. This is the first I have heard of anything like this."

Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, United States navy, retired, third of the trio of Norfolk negotiators, declined to comment. The admiral, long accustomed to dealing with men and affairs as a high naval officer, has served as spokesman for the trio during the long negotiations.

"I have nothing to say now," he replied to all questions.

Dean Dobson-Peacock, however; talked excitedly. He said he knew absolutely nothing of lucrative offers to Curtis by newspapers, such as was revealed in the police announcement that Curtis had confessed he faked the negotiations.

A decidedly different reaction came from Director of Public Safety Charles H. Borland and Chief of Police S. W. Ironmonger. The officers, who have been investigating the case at the request of New Jersey state police since the body of the murdered Lindbergh child was found in the Sourland hills, said their investigation here indicated a deliberate fake and that they had so advised New Jersey authorities. They said the confession was expected.

Amazement, however, swept the city when newspapers in black headlines informed the people that the lengthy negotiations they had followed avidly for two months were faked.

It was a startling anti-climax to hurried automobile trips, mysterious airplane flights, and cruises to sea in storm and fair weather alike, reputed "contacts" with the kidnapers in a Will O' the Wisp schooner which never assumed tangible form.

Trusted Completely

So realistic was the stirring drama that the bereaved father, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, came here personally and went out on the palatial yacht Marcon, loaned by Colonel Charles Consolvo, of Baltimore and Norfolk. They went out armed, fearing treachery, while a naval plane always hung in the sky like an eagle ready to swoop from its aerie at the first threat of attack against the Marcon.

Aboard was Curtis, apparently the only member not expecting to encounter in the dreary water lanes over the horizon from the Virginia Capes the desperate group of gangsters believed to have taken the infant Lindbergh from his baby crib at the Lindbergh home.

Dean Dobson-Peacock, himself, made trips for the purpose of encountering the kidnapers—a hur-

F. C. Billard, Head Of Coast Guards, Claimed By Death

Washington, May 17 (AP)—Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, picturesque commandant of the nation's coast guard service, died today, bringing to an end a sea career which made him one of the most admired men in Atlantic and Pacific waters.

Death came at the age of 58 from complications following an attack of influenza.

For eight years as commandant Admiral Billard directed coast guard activities in its life saving duities and constant fight against smugglers. He served longer than any other commandant.

He knew the service in all of its phases, having served in Alaska waters, on the Pacific, Atlantic and gulf coast.

Trial Of Means To Begin Next Monday

Washington, May 17 (AP)—The trial of Gaston B. Means today was tentatively set to begin next Monday.

Subpoenas were issued for 18 government witnesses to appear on May 23 to testify in support of indictments charging him with embezzlement and larceny after trust.

The Means case is another development growing out of the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

The government claims that Means, who became notorious through connection with scandals during the Harding administration, swindled Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, estranged wife of the Washington publisher, of $104,000, by representing that he could find and return the Lindbergh baby.

Boy Scouts Plan Expansion Program

New York, May 17 (AP)—Expansion of the membership of the Boy Scouts in America to 1,300,000 with the added objective of seeing that each boy remains in the organization at least four years is the object of a ten-year program adopted today at the twenty-second annual meeting of the organization's national council.

Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive, said it was hoped that one voter out of every four new male citizens would have four years of scout training.

The average duration of scout membership was said to have increased from two to three years during the last four years.

Betty Gow Sews As Rumors Fly Thickly

Englewood, N. J., May 17 (AP)—While rumors were flooding the country that she had committed suicide Miss Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nurse, was quietly sewing in the house near Hopewell yesterday.

Alarmed at the persistence of the rumors, her friends here telephoned the Lindbergh home and were told by Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow that Miss Gow was in excellent health and was "sitting tight sewing."

Man Asserts He Aided in Kidnap Plot

New York, May 17 (AP)—A man arrested on a charge of wife abandonment in Brooklyn today told police he and five other men kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

Police said he admitted being a narcotic user and that he had been drinking heavily. Although they said they doubted the truth of his story, they started an immediate investigation to check its details.

The prisoner at first gave his name as Frank Smith but later admitted he was Frank Parzych, 30, with a wife and two children living in Brooklyn.

He told his story of participating in the kidnaping to Lieut. Durkin after his arrest on abandonment charges last night.

His story was said by Police Commissioner Mulrooney to be substantially as follows:

A few months ago, while he was working on a rum runner, an occupation he pursued for

SENATE PLANS VOTE ON BEER

First Prohibition Test To Be Made in Upper Body Today

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

Washington, May 17 (AP)—A powerful bi-partisan coalition drove the billion dollar revenue bill far along its course today in the senate and kept its complex provisions intact.

It halted temporarily tonight, however, on an amendment to legalize 2.75 beer and tax it.

The individual and corporation income tax rates were approved without record votes after the coalition showed its strength in warding off drastic increases in the individual rates.

The 2.75 beer proposal was made by Senator Tydings (D. Md.) who would finance a $1,500,000 public construction program by a 24 cents a gallon tax on the beverage.

Agreement was reached to vote tomorrow on the Tydings amendment, bringing the first beer vote in the senate since national prohibition became effective.

Tomorrow also, the senate will encounter the first of the four tariff items in the bill. Attempts will be made to lay aside the tariff rates until the end of the bill.

The multitude of special excise taxes to raise half of the billion dollars to balance the budget came up tonight but the beer debate forestalled a decision.

The rapid work today elated sponsors of the non-partisan bill and talk was resumed tonight of a final adjournment by June 10.

A flat prediction that a dole would be passed next winter unless some relief measure was enacted before then was laid before the senate by Tydings in opening his drive for what he termed "not a wet, not a dry proposition, but my humble attempt to try to anticipate the needs of next winter and provide some means for alleviating conditions."

He contended 2.75 beer would not transgress the 18th amendment, and said a beer tax would amortize the proposed billion and a half bond issue inside ten years.

Looking to the future, he asked, "what kind of situation is ahead of us, with from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 unemployed?"

"If we do not act now, when the snows of next winter fall, it may be too late to act," he said. "Just as sure as the sun rises and sets, a dole will be introduced in this congress next year."

BODIES WERE CREMATED IN SHACK BLAZE

NO WITNESSES TO EARLY MORNING TRAGEDY

Three Escanaba men were burned to death Tuesday morning in a fire which destroyed a small cottage in the southwestern outskirts of Escanaba, near the Willow Creek road. The victims were:

Harold Bergeson, 38, married, Lake Shore Drive.
Ernest Berg, 24, married, 214 North Eleventh.
Earl Putvin, 32, single, 1010 Third Ave. So.

Apparently no one saw the fire, and the bodies were cremated beyond recognition, but Peter Murray, owner of the place, said the three men came to him Monday noon to get the key, saying that they were going to have a sauerkraut feed that night. Further identification was established by members of the families Tuesday.

Find Parked Car

Ed Williams, Percy Lund, and Nels Engstrom, neighbors in the vicinity of the Murray cottage, were the first to notice that the place had burned down when they came out of their homes shortly before 6 a. m. Tuesday. Police were notified immediately from the telephone at the sewage treatment plant, but everything had been destroyed, with the exception of Bergeson's car, badly burned, which had been parked less than 20 feet from the house. The cottage was a frame structure of two rooms, and was valued by the owner at about $400.

A small root cellar was under one of the rooms, and it was in this that the ashes of the bodies were found on the twisted remains of an iron bed, indicating that the men had been overcome in their sleep.

A southwesterly wind had fanned the flames, and carried them to the parked automobile. On the opposite side were freshly emptied sauerkraut cans, indicating that the men had carried out the plan for a sauerkraut feed which they had broached to Mr. Murray when asking for the use of the cottage.

Cause Unknown

Police were continuing their investigation of the tragedy Tuesday afternoon by questioning neighbors and any others who had seen any of the men Monday, but there was no clue to indicate the cause of the fire, due to the complete destruction of everything about the place. The bodies were taken to the Allo funeral home.

Mr. Bergeson was born at Escanaba, Jan. 22, 1894, and was married here to Ellen Bilgren. He leaves his widow, one son, Harold, Jr., 14, his father, Arne Bergeson, 80, and a sister at Madison, Wis. The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the Allo funeral home, with burial in Lakeview cemetery.

Mr. Berg was born at Gladstone, Aug. 9, 1908, and leaves a

Condon Says He Knew All Along That Curtis Was Faking Stories

New York, May 17 (AP)—The "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh kidnaping case said tonight neither he nor Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had been "taken in" by John Hughes Curtis and his story of contacts with the abductors.

"I knew it all the time and so did the colonel," said the aged educator who on April 2 tossed a package containing $50,000 ransom to a man on the other side of a New York cemetery wall.

"The colonel knew that I was the only one who had the real contact, which was proven through the symbols, the suit and the pins."

"This is what broke my contact," Dr. Condon continued, as he dug into a pocket and produced a newspaper clipping bearing the headline:

"Curtis says Colonel Lindbergh authorizes him to pay $100,000."

"The kidnapers saw that story and thought there was a chance of getting more money," he added.

Dr. Condon said he thought there was a chance he might have been able to persuade the kidnapers to return the baby alive without the payment of any money, had he been able to get in contact with them early enough in the case.

"We know plenty that has not come out yet," he said cryptically.

Then he displayed a sheet of paper which he called "the house of facts revealing my step by step movements in connection with the

Rapist Sentenced to Death, Put In Death Row--And Forgotten

Raleigh, N. C., May 17 (AP)—The strange case of a man placed in state prison's death row nearly eight months ago under sentence of electrocution and then forgotten was discovered here today.

The man is Willie Rector, convicted in Burke county of a rape charge and sentenced to die in the electric chair last October 2. Prison officials said the youth, just 19 years old, had lived from day to day in the belief that any hour he might be called out and led to the execution chamber, a few feet from his cell.

The strain of the seven months uncertainty, they added, has affected the mind of the prisoner.

A confusion of records produced the situation. Inquiry of the Burke county clerk of court today disclosed that notice of appeal in proper form had been given in Rector's behalf after he was convicted, and due notice served upon prison officials. Under the law, this notice served as a stay of execution.

But through an oversight, the record in the case was not sent to the supreme court, although a transcript of the judgment was filed. In the absence of the record, the case was not docketed.

A. A. F. Seawell, assistant attorney general, presented the case to the supreme court today.

DETROIT MONEY CRISIS PASSED

More Loans Enable City To Pay Delinquent Salaries

Detroit, May 17 (AP)—With the announcement by Mayor Frank Murphy that Detroit's financial problems for the remainder of the fiscal year "will be fully straightened out," employes of the city today looked forward to receiving their pay checks for the last two weeks of April, still unpaid.

Mayor Murphy, stating that a $2,400,000 loan from bankers will be available on Wednesday, said the pay checks would be forthcoming Wednesday. Some of them were distributed Tuesday. A total of $1,800,000 in delinquent salaries will be paid.

Following the distribution of the April checks, Mayor Murphy said the checks for the first two weeks of May, now due, would be given out, probably before the end of the week.

The completion of negotiations for loans, the mayor said, makes possible the straightening out of financial tangles until the close of the fiscal year on June 30.

Tentative plans for a $1,000,000 "charity loan" drive to meet the needs of the department of public welfare, officials of which have stated that $792,000 is necessary to carry on until the end of the fiscal year, are being made.

In a city-wide appeal to the public, the sponsors of the drive plan to ask Detroiters to buy one to three-year bonds at a rate of interest, which, according to tentative plans, will be six percent. Increased demands on the department have made necessary the loan drive, officials said.

time will permit tax officers to make allowances for it in spreading the levy to be paid in 1933. This must be done this fall. It is expected that in most counties the road tax will be entirely eliminated. Cities, villages and counties presumably will be able to materially cut their levies for past or present highway improvements.

The governor announced he will sign the budget bill, providing for 10 to 25 percent cuts in the pay of state employes, reducing departmental and institutional appropriations about 15 percent and limiting state police funds to those derived from the re-registration of automobile drivers, Wednesday. The budget act becomes effective July 1. With companion bills reducing building appropriations it will lower authorized state expenditures about $5,500,000 in the next fiscal year.

Seek Resignation Of Attorney For Veterans Bureau

Washington, May 17 (AP)—A resolution asking Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, to demand the resignation of William Wolff Smith, general counsel of thte veterans bureau, was adopted uninimously today by the house military affairs committee.

At the same time, Chairman McSwain appointed a subcommittee to continue the study of the disabled emergency officers retirement act, under which Smith drew $187.50 retired pay monthly in addition to his yearly salary of $9,000 as counsel.

Rep. James (R. Mich.), ranking Republican committee member, moved to demand Smith's resignation, reminding the committee that Hines had testified he was willing to ask the resignation of any member of his organization should the committee decide such action was just.

Where Three Met Death

The above chart shows where three Escanaba men were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a cabin near the Willow Creek road yesterday morning. The arrow points to the position of the cabin. The cabin was located about 200 yards north of the new sewage disposal plant. The roads leading to the cabin were the Willlow creek road which joins the old state road and 18th avenue south which passes north of the athleitc field and joins Lake Shore Drive.

Expenses Must Be Cut, Says Strawn

San Francisco, May 17 (AP)—Extravagant costs of government must be pared down, national credit maintained and governmental interference with legitimate business curtailed, Silas H. Strawn declared in opening the annual meeting of the United States chamber of commerce today.

The business and industrial leaders of the nation were told that they must pay the taxes and debts created through "extravagance in the past," and were warned to devote attention to present and future economies of government.

Strawn reviewed the business difficulties of the country and listed as contributory barriers to American foreign trade: first, the burden of enormous costs of armament; second, the uncertainty abroad concerning possible relief from war debts, and, third, high tariffs that virtually dam the flow of goods from nation to nation.

Former Mayor Is Defendant In Suit

Windsor, Ont., May 17 (AP)—John H. Wigle, former mayor of East Windsor, was named defendant today in a $50,000 damage suit growing out of the death May 22, 1931, of Maurice Heller, young East Windsor attorney, in an airplane crash.

The suit, filed on behalf of Mrs. Lena Heller and Mervin and Joseph Heller, mother and brothers of Maurice Heller, charges that Wigle operating the plane was negligent. It also charges the plane, owned by the Dominion government, was defective.

Woman Is Killed Near Watersmeet

Iron River, Mich., May 17 (AP)—Mrs. Joseph Malinowski, 42, was killed late today when the automobile in which she was riding was ditched as the driver lost control following a blowout near Watersmeet, 25 miles west of here. She is survived by her husband, a Green Bay resident, and eight children.

Three sisters, Mrs. Ted Wickman, Gladstone, Dagne Berg, Miami, Fla., and Emma, Chicago, and a half brother, Norman, 10, of Gladstone, also survive.

Mr. Putvin was born July 16, 1900, at Gladstone. His mother died when he was ten years old, and since that time he made his home with the Phil Dupont family at 1010 Third avenue south, where his father died six years ago. He was a member of Knights of Columbus council 640 and the mechinists union, having been employed by the C. & N. W. An aunt, Miss Margaret Morrison of Milwaukee, is expected to come to Escanaba for the funeral. Another aunt, Mrs. Clifford Bushie, lives at Hermansville.

Both the Berg and Putvin funerals are scheduled for Thursday morning.

Lansing—Field work in Schoolcraft county will be completed during the coming summer and as much work will be finished in Cheboygan county this year as time and finances will permit L. R. Schoenmann, chief of the Land Economic Survey Division of the Department of Conservation has announced.

Field work was started in Schoolcraft county last year. This is the first county in which it has been possible to use airplane photographs and as a result work has been greatly facilitated.

The survey began work in the Pigeon River Forest and Game Refuge in Cheboygan county last year. This will be completed during the 1932 field season and as much more of Cheboygan county will be surveyed as possible before fall. The survey in Cheboygan county will probably be finished during the 1933 season.

Twelve rubbers of contract bridge between two matched teams in a charity tournament at Amarillo, Tex., resulted in a tie score of 9,285 points.

State Identifies Many Strange Fish

Lansing—Did you ever catch a fish that you or your friends could not identify? Are the fish in your favorite fishing waters afflicted with some disease or did you ever find a dead fish and wonder what killed it?

If so, send the specimen to the Institute for Fisheries Research, University Museum, Ann Arbor, and not only will your curiosity be satisfied but the Institute will probably obtain information that will assist others in identifying fish and will give data in carrying on fish investigations.

Fish sent to the Institute for identification or examination should be packed in ice in a paper lined wooden box or preserved in a solution of one part of formaldehyde to ten parts of water. Large fish should be slit on the side when preserved in solution.

When a situation is acute; that is when fish seem to be dying in large numbers from pollution or some other cause, a report should be made immediately to the local conservation officer or to the Lansing office of the Department of Conservation.

"70 PER IS NOTHING!"

Los Angeles, Cal.—Paul Armstrong, 16, seated at the wheel of an expensive automobile, was halted in a wild ride along a boulevard by Motorcycle Officer E. J. Lynch. "Well, well, Barney Oldfield, Jr., that was a neat 70 miles an hour," commented Lynch. "Why, officer!" Armstrong said proudly, "that was nothing. You should'a seen me a minute ago. I was doing 103 miles an hour." His driver's license may be revoked.

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press)

From President Hoover down, capital was aroused by hoax perpetrated upon Lindberghs by John Hughes Curtis.

Senate sped along billion dollar revenue bill by approving its income and corporation tax schedules.

Federal reserve board announced purchase of government securities would continue as "conditions justify."

Senator Ashurst, Arizona, urged that Democratic national convention abolish rule requiring two-thirds vote to nominate presidential candidate.

Court effort was begun to remove Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, as co-trustee of his father's estate.

Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, coast guard commandant, died.

W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general, denied he demanded Missouri postmasters to support Hoover for re-election.

Children Receive Special Attention At Michigan Clinic

Ann Arbor, May 16.—Michigan as a state has for many years taken a large and practical interest in the welfare of its younger citizens, but few, except among the parents of child patients, know that in the University of Michigan hospital the state has provided a children's department which medical men regard as one of the most impressive in this country and which cares for more than half of all the patients entering the hospital annually.

Twenty-six years ago the department of pediatrics began its work at the hospital, one of the pioneers in the field of specialized medical care for children. The equipment was little more than "a milk bottle and a magic lantern," says Dr. David Murray Cowie, its directors then and now. The magic lantern was for pictorial instruction of medical students and not for infant entertainment. Since that day the growth of the department has been phenomenal, keeping pace with the great advances in child care, until today the work for children occupies the whole sixth floor or Palmer Ward of the huge new hospital building, shops and playrooms and an open air play space on the eighth floor, and part of one wing of the main floor, as well as separate contagious and convalescent buildings.

In this headquarters of child health as many as 2050 cases are registered in a month, over 92 times as many cases as were treated during the whole first year of the department's existence, while throughout the year children under 14 years of age compromise more than 50 per cent of all the hospital's patients.

Every sort of care is available here, from incubators for babies born too soon to apparatus for the alleviation of deformities of long standing. Hare-lip, once a life time blight, is corrected regularly by operation on the young infant. Babies ill with pneumonia may be seen here enclosed within large windowed tents, breathing a life-giving air kept charged with extra oxygen, a method which has saved many infant lives. In another ward bright's disease and diabetes, more common among children than is usually known, are treated with diet and medicine. In the field of mental hygiene for children, the development of right ideas and attitudes in the mind of youth, which Dr. Cowie calls "preventing infectious disease of the mind," the hospital works in close co-operation with the University Elementary school, and is accumulating valuable knowledge of the mental health both of the normal child and the ill one, whose physical condition may tend to warp his mental outlook.

typewriter and himself wrote a complete confession concerning his activities in the case.

"He stated that the boats and all the people to whom he has been referring were creations of his own mind and do not exist in fact.

"Shortly after the kidnaping Mr. Curtis told a story about having a contact with the kidnapers.

"A newspaper representative, according to Mr. Curtis' statement, made a very lucrative offer to him for his story to be given exclusively to that paper. Also, according to Mr. Curtis, a very lucrative offer was made by another newspaper and a film company concerning his activities. This spurred Mr. Curtis on to greater activity.

"Mr. Curtis also said that Dean Peacock (the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, his Norfolk associate) could have prevented his unfortunate part in this enormous deception. Admiral Burrage (Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, another associate) merely presented to Colonel Lindbergh the story as he had heard it, making no recommendations but permitting it to stand on its merits.

"Reputable citizens and officials frequently vouched to Col. Lindbergh for the integrity of Mr. Curtis, stating that his word could be relied upon. This made the deception so much easier. The story of Mr. Curtis has resulted in the very widespread activities of the coast guard and other federal agencies in seeking the fictitious boat he has described. It has further resulted in many official airplane trips, auto trips as well as keeping Col. Lindbergh away from home and activities during the most important phase of the case in pursuit of the fictitious clues.

"Four days ago when Mr. Curtis came to these headquarters the police authority at this point started questioning him and checking his story.

"The result of the check on his story and the questioning of Mr. Curtis was culminated at 4 o'clock this morning."

In Norfolk, Dean Dobson-Peacock at first expressed surprise over the development, but later flatly denied Curtis' statement that he (Dobson-Peacock) could have prevented the deception of Colonel Lindbergh.

"That is not so," the minister said. "I was presented by Mr. Curtis with his story. I believed it. He told Admiral Burrage. Admiral Burrage believed it. And Colonel Lindbergh himself on the basis of the same story authorized us to act in the case.

"I can't understand it at all. But I still believe in the sincerity of Mr. Curtis. He has been under a frightful strain for more than two months."

Confession Expected

At Trenton, it was learned authoritatively, the attorney-general's office had sent a request to the dean, asking if he would come to Hopewell voluntarily for questioning in the connection with the case.

But from a variety of other sources sprang statements indicating the climax of the most bizzare of the circumstances cloaking the whole case was not unexpected.

Governor A. Harry Moore had "felt all along that not much credence should be placed in Curtis' story;" the coast guard said the confession bore out conclusions they reached because of discrepancies in Curtis' description of the boat used by the supposed kidnapers and because a search by boat and plane was futile; police in Norfolk said the confession coincided with information uncovered there since the baby was found murdered.

Police became suspicious, the governor related, because the notes Curtis used in telling his story were in manuscript rather than memorandum form.

"It did not seem possible," said Moore, "that a person making hasty notes as would be expected, would be so careful in writing them. He would make quick notes. That made police suspicious."

The governor said he did not know under what charge Curtis could be held. In response to inquiries Col. Schwarzkopf announced Curtis has not as yet been placed under arrest.

As possible charges the governor suggested seeking to obtain money under false pretenses or "hampering the ends of justice."

It was also pointed out that if the mails were used in any way a charge might be made against him by postal authorities. Norfolk authorities immediately began to cast about for possible procedure with regard to prosecution.

Rear Admiral Burrage, one of the three Norfolk negotiators, credited generally with obtaining an audience for them with Col. Lindbergh, had been the commander of the Cruiser Memphis which returned the flier to this country after his epochal New York to Paris flight. Col. Lindbergh came to the telephone personally when Burrage had called him and the admiral identified himself by relating intimate incidents aboard the cruiser.

Dean Dobson-Peacock was a widely known clergyman and Curtis, while suffering business reverses had been prominent in southern society. The Gas Engine and Boat company of which Curtis was president filed a petition in bankruptcy in Norfolk May 5, 1931. Liabilities were given as $357,173.32 and assets at $224,301.29. The company later was reorganized as the J. H. Curtis Gas Engine and Boat Corporation.

Planning Reward

The astounding revelations of Curtis sent police authorities into a conference. It became known that Colonel Lindbergh had informed officials he had no objections to the state of New Jersey offering a reward for the capture of the murderers of the son but he did not want it to seem that he was asking for such action. The most generally discussed figure was $50,000.

The Curtis development left the authorities clinging to Dr. John F. Condon as their best clue to the identity of the extortionists who obtained $50,000 ransom April 2 through him without returning the child, then long dead.

Col. Henry Breckinridge, intimate advisor of Col. Lindbergh, told a grand jury in the Bronx, New York City, how he sat nearby in an automobile while Dr. Condon passed the ransom through a cemetery hedge to the supposed kidnaper.

It was generally believed that Col. Lindbergh would not be called, his story being told for him by Col. Breckinridge. Dr. Condon was not reached during the day by the prosecutor.

During its three and one-half hour session, the grand jury heard five witnesses. Dr. Condon waited in an ante-room during the entire session. He was asked to return Friday morning when the inquiry will be resumed.

Max Rosenhaim, proprietor of a Bronx restaurant patronized by "Jafsie," was the second witness called. He was in the grand jury room for 30 minutes, and was followed by Milton Gaglio, who on at least one occasion acted as chauffeur for Condon.

Gaglio remained inside ten minutes and when he and Rosenhaim left the building they declined to answer any questions.

Detroit (AP)—A city-wide search is under way for Samuel Montelone, following the discovery Thursday night of the body of his wife, Mary, shot to death in the kitchen of their home. Montelone and a four-year old daughter disappeared. There are five children in the family.

GUN VICTIM

Victim of revolver shots reported to have been fired by seven men who forced their way into his Tokio residence, Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai of Japan was mortally wounded.

Mrs. Hoover Takes Kiddies To Circus

Washington, May 17 (AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover took six little boys and girls to a circus today and provided them "with every delight of the sawdust kingdom—even like chameleons to take home.

The children were Patsy and Billy Butler, Suzanne Boone, French Strother, Jr., Russell Train, and John Marshall Newton—small sons and daughters of White House officials. Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, vice president Curtis' sister, was there too.

"PERFECT" COPS

London—There are policemen in Prague who never bawl out people, but who are always extremely courteous and helpful. You're right: they're not human. They are newly invented robots placed in public places. An official stands by each of them with a list of possible queries from the public. When someone wants to know of a good restaurant, dressmaker or provision merchant, he presses a button on the machine, and a long list of the required dealers emerges.

Lindbergh case."

In the lower left hand corner was a sketch of the side of the Lindbergh home with a ladder leaning against the wall. From it extended arrows, with the following words at the ends of the arrows:

"The start," "boat," "red," "B. G.," "telephone to Jafsie," "ad—Jafsie $1,000," "reply to colonel," "reply to Jafsie," "sleeping suit Jafsie," "letters directions by taxi," "visit to gate for prayer," "ad Jafsie sleeping gown," "letter mail signed," "taxi letter, signature O. K.," "visit kidnapers Bergen's table note," "visit St. Raymond's axel under directions," "directions gay head St. Elizabeth Island," "Jafsie ad wait?"

Dr. Condon declined to explain the phrases.

He said his motives for acting in the case were "patriotism, the home, school, state and society."

In reply to a question about whether he ever had been afraid of the kidnapers, Dr. Condon said:

"No! They broke contact with me when the baby was about to be returned, and placed me in a position of discredit in the eyes of the country."

Mother Is Granted Daughter's Custody

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 17 (AP)—Absolved of a charge of attempting to kidnap her seven year old daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. Pearl Caldwell, 21, was released by Kent county authorities today and permitted to retain custody of the child.

Prosecutor B. J. Jonkman announced he was convinced of the truth of Mrs. Caldwell's story that the child, Wilma Schadenberg, had been placed in her custody at the time of her divorce from her first husband, two years ago. Mrs. Caldwell said she had married William Schadenberg and given birth to the child when she was 14.

Missouri Valley College at Marshall, Mo., recently abolished hazing by a vote of the student body.

Cat Walks Over 130 Miles From Big Bay to Cooks

Garden, Mich., May 17, (Special)—A large male cat, originally owned by Mrs. Alma Janes of Cooks recently made its way, all the way from Big Bay beyond Marquette, a distance in all of over 130 miles.

The feline had been given to a sister last fall because his owner had decided to keep canaris. The new owner took her pet, allowing him to ride on the shelf at the back of her coupe. On a subsequent trip to Cooks, she had brought the cat along, giving him the same privilege to take in the scenery on the round trip. Several months after it had been away, the Jane's family heard a pleading cry outside the door. Opening it they fond Tom. He did not appear to have suffered from his long trip. It is believed that he came leisurely, providing his own food and resting at will. Mrs. Janes declares that her home is at his disposal as long as he cares to stay even though there is some risk that he may develop a fondness for her birds but she believes that a cat with sense enough to make such a trip will soon understand that the birds are in "protected" territory.

St. Joe Athletes Will Be Kiwanis' Guests Tonight

A Lester Pierce, registrar of St. Thomas' college, St. Paul, will be the main speaker at the meeting of the Escanaba-Wells Kiwanis club at the Ludington hotel at 6:15 o'clock this evening. Letter men of St. Joseph's high school will be guests of the Kiwanis club at the dinner.

An added attraction of the meeting will be a musical program provided by the Aquinas Trio of St. Thomas' college.

Mr. Pierce has a wide reputation throughout the northwest as a speaker. He is making a lecture tour for two weeks in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Monterey, Calif., commercial fishermen marketed 161,770,473 pounds of fish last year.

CAR ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL

Frank Hongisto, Deerton, Crushed to Death Under Auto

Munising, May 17—Frank Hongisto, of Deerton, towship clerk of Onota township, was killed in an automobile accident Monday evening on the highway between Sand River and Deerton, while on his way home from Sand River. Mr. Hongisto was driving his own car and was accompanied by Charles Gogarn and Mrs. George Dale. The accident happened at about 9:30 o'clock. The weather was windy and cloudy and it is presumed that Mr. Hongisto lost control of his car on a narrow road, the car left the road and turned turtle, and that he was crushed to death. Mr. Gogarn was slightly injured and Mrs. Dale was uninjured.

The funeral will be held at two o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Finnish Lutheran church at Deerton, Rev. Kaarto officiating. Four of his brothers will act as pallbearers, Ed., Walter, Iver, and Nestor, and Otto Karvonen and Fred Lake.

Frank's parents died at their home at Deerton, the father in 1909 and the mother n 1930. Frank was 25 years old and was born at Deerton, where he was raised and attended school. Last spring he was elected township clerk of Onota township. Two of his brothers, Ed and Walter, have each served as supervisors of Onota township. Besides his brothers he is survived by a sister, Miss Elsie, who lives at home. The deceased was a young man of fine character and his death is deeply mourned in his community.

BARBER'S WAR

The starting up of another barber shop in Munising has precipitated a barbers' war on prices. Hair cuts have cost 50 cents and shaves 25 cents. Last year prices were reduced by two shops; now all shops have cut to 35 cents for hair cuts and 15 for shaves. One shop has cut hair cuts to 25 cents.

FIRST CROP

Alger county's first crop, trailing arbutus, is almost exhausted. Children have reaped quite a harvest from the sale of bouquets along railroad stations and by hailing passing cars, offering bouquets for sale.

MUNISING BRIEFS

Bruce Leslie of Gwinn was in the city yesterday, greeting old-time friends. His daughter, "Bonnie," Munising high school girl, who later became a graduate nurse, was married about one month ago to Walter Holletz, furniture man, and now makes her home in Chicago.

The funeral of Mrs. Albert Foote was held this morning from Sacred Heart church, Rev. P. F. Manderfield officiating. The pallbearers were: George Revord, Orville Revord, Arthur Utecht, Gunnard Bjork, Malcolm Manning and Frank Bonneville. Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John LaMuth and five brothers, John, George, Frank, Joseph and Clarence LaMuth, and Mrs. Hugo Erickson, all of Manistique, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wickholm of Escanaba.

Mrs. Benjamin Hankin was released from the Munising hospital Monday after a three weeks' illness. Her little daughter, Barbara, who has been very ill with erysipelas, is much improved. Mrs. S. Abramson, Mrs. Hankin's mother, arrived Monday from Chicago on a visit with the family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Korpela spent last Sunday at Ishpeming with relatives.

Mrs. Everett Morrison and children, who have been visiting relatives here for the past two weeks, have returned to their home at Seney.

T. G. Sullivan is still confined to his home on account of a serious illness.

Miss Lena Delger spent the first of the week at Onota.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Goodreau of Seul Choix visited with Mrs. Gust LaVake and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Perrulat last Sunday. They were accompanied back by Mrs. Agnes Goodreau who has been visiting here for a few days.

Going to Rome

Sault Ste. Marie—The Rev. Dean John J. Stenglein of St. Mary's parish is embarking on a long-contemplated trip to Rome where as a young man he received his education. Father Stenglein left the Sault Sunday for New York City. He will be gone two months.

He expects to visit in Italy, Spain, France and Ireland.

Chiropractors to Meet

Sault Ste. Marie—At a meeting of the Upper Peninsula Chiropractors Association held at Marquette Sunday, Sault Ste. Marie was picked as the next convention city. The convention will be held July 10. Between 25 and 50 are expected to be present.

Dr. E. M. Edling, of the Sault was elected secretary-treasurer of the association. He is also chairman of the convention program committee.

Other officers elected were: president, Dr. A. A. Mellon of Munising; vice-president, Dr. H. W. Swanson, of Ishpeming.

Accidentally Killed

Iron Mountain—Edward J. St. Arnauld, age 43 years, residing at 216 West Hughitt street and a life-long resident of Iron Mountain, was almost instantly killed, and Harold Rule, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rule, 414 West Hughitt street, was cut and bruised in an accident occuring at 6:45 o'clock last night on U. S. 141 near Abrams, Wis., when the transfer truck driven by Rule, with St. Arnauld as a passenger, crashed into a culvert and was wrecked. The men were enroute from Green Bay to this city.

Merchant Dies

Iron Mountain—Otto Louis Arnold, age 56 years, proprietor of Arnold's meat and grocery store, 410 Carpenter avenue, former city alderman and a resident of Iron Mountain for 50 years, dropped dead at 6:30 o'clock this morning in the kitchen of his home, 1111 Stockbridge avenue. Heart trouble, from which he had suffered for some time, was given as the cause.

Salesman Arrested

Menominee—Elmer Drinkwine, 39, Fond du Lac shoestring and hairpin salesman, has either an alias or a sense of humor, maybe both.

He was arrested at 10 p. m. Saturday by Chief Frank Parsek of the city police sitting on a sidewalk at Ruth street and Fremont avenue with his back braced against a telegraph pole. Mr. Drinkwine was in such an advanced state of intoxication, according to Chief Parsek, that he could not remember what city he was in.

Pierce Speaks At Sr. High Today

Adults are invited to attend the assembly which will be at 10:10 o'clock in the morning. No admission charge is being made.

Mr. Pierce and the college musicians who are making a tour of upper Michigan cities will also appear on the program of the St. Anne's P. T. A. this evening.

Wild Goose Makes Self at Home On Farm Near Garden

By H. HEAFIELD

Garden, Mich., May 17.—Frank Beardsley, a farmer living two miles north of town, reports that about 2 weeks ago, a wild goose visited the pair of domesticated breeding geese already on his father's farm.

At first it was quite timid especially since the female birl already there considered her presence as an intrusion. After a few days however she forgot any hard feelings which she may have entertained and condescended more or less graciously to allow the vagabond to share her own domicile. Then for a few days the trio had a good time the new arrival becoming almost as contented on the place as the other two birds. The Beardsley family watched developments with much interest as did the neighbors.

Various theories were advanced as to the bird's presence there. It was recalled that several years ago a wild goose built her nest and raised a brood in the swamp near the Beardsley house. Could it have been this bird, or one of her offsprings? Then some neighbor ventured the suggestion that this was a bird whose mate had recently been shot perhaps, while the whole flock was making its way northward. But no proof could be given for either of these theories.

Then, very suddenly, the bird disappeared to the great regret of the Beardsley. No explanation was possible unless perhaps she had paused a few days to rest before continuing her long flight to the northland though this theory did not carry weight because her condition was not such as to give one the impression that she was in need of such rest.

After several days' absence, another unexplained development followed. The bird returned but in company with a wild male bird as her mate. There were no serious protests from the two domesticated birds and in only a short time the visitors accepted the privileges of domestication equally with their recently found chums.

What will happen in the future? Will the birds become permanently domesticated or will they some fall day hear the call of their former companion on their way to the southland and respond to the calls of the wild, taking with them their domesticated companions and their offsprings.

103 Applications For Training Camp

Additional applications for Citizens Military Training Camp have been received from Delta county boys, making the number enrolled from this section at 103 as compared to a quota of 40. Virtually every other county has far exceed its quota.

The enrollment figures by counties follow: Alger, 33; Baraga, 37; Chippewa, 5; Delta, 103; Dickinson, 106; Gogebic, 130; Houghton, 125; Iron, 32; Keweenaw, 13; Luce, 5; Mackinac, 4; Marquette, 87; Menominee, 45; Ontonagon, 13; Schoolcraft, 10.

The latest applications from this country were made by the following boys: Llewelly A. Anderson, Thomas F. Banks, Robert F. McEwen, and John F. Peters, Escanaba; Wesley E. Saari, Rock.

Automobile Owners Pay Heaviest Taxes

Michigan automobile owners paid 17.9 percent of the value of their property in taxes during 1931, according to figures compiled by the Automobile Club of Michigan. Motor vehicles bear the highest rate of taxation in existence on every form of property in the country today.

Figures obtained from the American Automobile Association in Washington show that the value of all motor vehicles in Michigan last year was $243,450,915, and the total tax bill was $43,693,930.

"The value of all motor vehicles in the country," said Richard Harfst, general manager, "was $5,105,257,524. Taxes imposed on this motor vehicle property amounted to $1,025,779,876. This means that the rate of taxation for the country was 20.1 percent. It also means that during the average life of the motor vehicle (seven years) it is taxed 140.7 percent of its value. Certainly there is no other form of property bearing such a heavy tax burden.

"In twenty-six states the tax percent of valuation is higher than the national average and in several instances almost twice as high."

The Michigan A. A. A. club pointed out that in the face of this heavy tax bill, the Congress now proposes to add Federal levies to the multiplicity of others now imposed on car owners.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY LUCY McLEOD

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Lucy McLeod, 67, who died at her home, 200 South Sixth street, Sunday, were held at the Anderson Funeral Home yesterday afternoon with Rev. Carl E. Berger officiating. The body will be sent to Neenah, Wis., this morning for burial in the family lot in Oakhill cemetery.

It takes Two Hands to play a Piccolo . .

But You Need Only One Finger To Steer This "Caterpillar"

Pull a lever — with one finger — the steering clutches of your "Caterpillar" do the work. They turn the tractor instantly — positively — without side-slipping and without digging into the soil.

In plowing, this means less time lost in turning and less waste in head lands. In cultivating, it means the ability to deftly dodge and maneuver in crooked rows without danger of damaging plants. In all farming operations, it means a speeding-up of working schedules. And it means the end of supper-time backache from straining at a steering wheel.

Finger-Tip Control Is Only One Advantage—There Are Many Others!

Consider the tracks!—those broad steel rails that are laid down for the wheels of a "Caterpillar" to roll over. They do precisely what a wide board under a wheelbarrow would do. They bridge the depressions—stay on top of soft soil—leaving the tractor's strength free to pull a pay load.

That's why a gallon of fuel in a "Caterpillar" Tractor goes farther. That's why a "Caterpillar" can work soft seed beds without soil packing. That's why it's cheaper to farm with a "Caterpillar."

Write today for a new booklet which describes this money-making tractor.

CAPTAIN "BOB" DOLLAR

CAPTAIN ROBERT DOLLAR, famous lumbering and shipping magnate, who back in the eighties conducted logging operations in the upper peninsula, died at his home in San Rafael, California, early Monday. Before he left his worldly surroundings, he imparted some good advice for us mortals who remain to carry on.

It was on the occasion of his eighty-eight birthday anniversary last March that Captain Dollar expressed the opinion that the world "is a fine place if you want to work."

"I've been through six or seven depressions, and can generally predict their course," he said. "We are on the upgrade. Have confidence and work—good times are heading this way."

Like John Jacob Astor who capitalized on the conditions of an economic slump to start on his way to found a huge fortune, Captain Dollar kept always working while others were discouraged and inactive. He started a round-the-world steamship service toward the close of the post-war depression of a decade ago, despite the predictions of experienced shipping men that it wouldn't be successful, but he said work did it.

Captain Dollar, however, on his birthday did not make any comment regarding about the poor fellow, who wants to work but cannot find a job. But the famous character of "Cappy Ricks" in Peter B. Kyne's books knew what it was to be hard up, and despite many obstacles he always managed to surmount them. Robert Bryers, Sr., pioneer Luce county settler, once recalled that when Dollar was in Bracebridge, Ontario, his lumbering outfit was seized by creditors, and he wasn't worth his name." Dollar worked hard, however, Bryers explained, and paid up his debt in less than two years.

Captain Dollar lived in Marquette while engaged in upper peninsula lumbering, and he made frequent trips to Luce county, where he operated a sawmill at the village of Dollarville, named in his honor. Until his death, he was interested in upper peninsula activities, and kept in touch by correspondence with many of his old-time friends. A former Escanaba boy, Harold Thompson, whose father was engaged in the insurance business here for several years, was private secretary for the shipping magnate.

"Work" was Captain Dollar's magic word for the attainment of success. He rose to a comfortable position in life, however, in a day when life was not as complex as it is now. Man seemed to have more control over his destiny in his day, although if "Bob" Dollar were to start all over again in these times he probably would be found among those who are profitably employed. Some way or other he would find "work" to do, no doubt, but not all men are so endowed.

THE CHILDREN'S FUND

THE report, submitted by Dr. H. I. Miller to the Escanaba board of education, outlining the activities of the dental program in the public schools during the last five months, gives a good idea of the immense amount of good that is being accomplished by the Children's Fund of Michigan.

A considerable number of poor children are being given dental treatment, many of whom otherwise would have been deprived of this care. It has been the policy of the Children's Fund to direct its attention to the children in the lower grades so as to prevent serious conditions that would develop because of neglect.

In a survey made by the United States Public Health Service, in four states sometime ago, it was found that the children who suffer with decaying temporary teeth are mostly in the group from seven to eight years old; those who are having difficulty because of remaining roots are in the group around eight years of age. It is found that children six years of age have the highest percentage of temporary teeth with cavities.

Attention given to teeth at an early age will save much suffering and money in later years. The purpose of the Children's Fund dental program is primarily educational. It endeavors to prove to the public that it is highly important to have healthy teeth, and also teaches how to give them proper care.

GLOOMY PROSPECTS FOR GRADS

COMMENCEMENT exercises at the Rock high school last week were among the first of the series of such events that will be held throughout the country until the close of this school year.

Thousands upon thousands of eager boys and girls will be turned out from the high schools and colleges, but where to go and what to do will be a real puzzling problem for many. Where in previous times, high school and college graduates had a fairly definite idea of their plans they are many who now are in somewhat of a dilemma.

Many graduates of a year ago are pounding the pavements looking for work or else sitting around their parental homes, waiting for opportunities to start knocking. To many parents it has been a hard but willing sacrifice to see their loved ones through school. They have felt their solicitude for the educational needs of their children would be rewarded upon the completion of their training as they would be equipped to step into some position to earn their own livelihood.

In panics and calamities of the past on this continent some place under the sun was reserved where times were fairly good. Depressed conditions have been spotty heretofore, and there always were some districts that were quite satisfactory. To these places youth went, being denied its opportunity elsewhere. Today in the whole wide world there are few places for youth to go where it can get a chance at the bottom rung of the ladder for its life climb upward.

The more fortunate high school graduates will be going to college to spend four or more years in further preparation for their life's careers. They hope that by that time conditions will have improved and they will find something awaiting them. The college graduate, who has exhausted his resources and sees no need for further education, however, finds himself in a strange predicament.

There are two sides to every question, but the side that Capone favors right now is the outside.

From the progress being made at Geneva, it looks as if final instruction to each delegate was "don't sign anything."

Some of the politicians are coming out for free silver again. But the really wise ones will advocate free beer.

An Ohio State professor says that depression is a good eye-opener, but it's not hard to think of a better one.

That Illinois town which was visited by a tornado and federal prohibition agents the same day probably wishes they had arrived simultaneously.

OIL TANKER SUNK

On May 18, 1918, fighting on the western front was confined to raiding activities by both sides, with none of the raids being made in such force as to allow the attacking troops to hold such positions as they seized.

The American oil tanker William Rockefeller was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine, with the loss of three lives.

The Manchester Guardian announced that the treaty between England, France, Russia and Italy, by which Italy had entered the war on the side of the Allies, had been abrogated and replaced by a new treaty.

Text of the treaty had been published in Moscow.

Reports from Russia said that German troops were continuing their advance into the Ukraine despite protests by the Soviet government.

CHAPTER XLII

THE two men faced each other across the shining expanse of mahogany. Heath was seated, his fingers playing nervously with the ivory handled paper knife. Waring strolled up and down, hands in pockets.

"But tell me what happened!" Heath demanded impatiently. "If what you believe is true they should have come to some understanding that night. I've heard nothing. Everything has gone as before."

Waring shrugged. "I've told you all I know," he explained. "Maybe I've been all kinds of a fool to mix into this at all. But you asked me and I only told you what I knew."

"I'm grateful to you," said the older man stiffly. "I know I can trust you. That's why it seemed a good idea to have you take her to that party. But if they met and if nothing happened why then—!" He raised his brows inquiringly.

"I see the point. You want to go ahead. Well, I don't know but what you're right," Waring said slowly. "They danced with each other. That I'm sure of. And they had a brief tete-a-tete. I must admit I felt like a blooming spy."

"Sorry, old man, but it couldn't be helped. It was in a good cause," his employer reminded him. "That's that. She's had a chance to talk with him and see him again and decide that their little flurry is over. That was what I wanted to be sure of. Well, now I'm satisfied."

"Good." But Waring's tone was dubious and Heath glanced at him irritably.

"Out with it, man. If you've something to say, say it and be done with it."

Waring stared reflectively out across the roof tops.

"It's nothing except that she seemed a bit excited as we drove home," he said lamely.

Heath laughed aloud, relieved. "Is that all? Well, I can see nothing in that. Any girl might be excited coming home from a big party. No, no, you're getting to be an old woman." He clapped the other affectionately on the shoulder. "I appreciate your solicitude, old chap, but honestly, I think it was pretty much wasted. Your imagination was working overtime."

"I hope you're right," Waring muttered.

"I know I am," said Heath heartily. And on that note the conversation ended.

"WHY do we wait any longer?" Heath asked Susan that night over a table high in a city restaurant. The city lay far flung beneath them, a spangle of lights to north and south.

His complacence was momentarily disturbed by the look she flashed at him. There was something unsettling about that look. "She behaves as though she were afraid of me," the man thought in surprise. He was very gentle.

"Your aunt's coming back on Saturday, isn't she?" he went on. "Well then, why couldn't we have a very quiet ceremony the following Monday and sail from New York next morning?"

With an effort Susan managed to keep her hand from trembling. Steadily she said, "All right. I'll arrange it that way."

The man liked her quiet response. Triumphantly he thought of Waring's hints and fears. Waring had been wrong. The girl was perfectly willing to marry him quickly and go away. That did not look as though she were nursing a broken heart.

That night as Susan brushed her hair before Rose's dressing table she told herself it would be better this way. She would go away, see new sights and new faces, and be cured of the fever which had possessed her so long. Aunt Jessie would be pleased. Everyone would be. There was no use postponing it any longer.

Lifelessly she told Rose, "I'm going to be married Monday."

"My dear!" Awe-struck, the other girl laid down the orange stick she had been using and gazed at Susan. "Try to sound a little more cheerful about it. It's not a funeral, you know!"

Susan summoned a smile. "I know. I didn't mean to seem gloomy. I'm tired, I guess."

"You poor kid, you." Rose hugged her. "Let me send out that beige suit with the fox collar I was telling you about. It's just your size and the style will be perfect for you. That will save your shopping and I can have it charged. You certainly can't," finished Rose robustly, "be married in any of your old things."

Susan agreed without enthusiasm. It was kind of Rose to go to so much bother for her. Of course she should look well for the ceremony. It would be nicer if she could feel excited and happy about it as brides were supposed to feel but since she couldn't she must at least try to look the part.

THE suit was delivered the following afternoon and with it came pumps of snakeskin and stockings of sheerest silk. Rose had even chosen a tiny turban to complete the ensemble. It was fashioned of myriad small velvet flowers in pale fawn shades.

"Try them on, lovey," Mrs. Milton commanded. Susan obeyed. Listless as she was she could not help a feeling of satisfaction at the effect produced by the new outfit. She looked to herself, slim, straight and remotely elegant as the mannequins sketched on the pages of Vogue.

"You surely are a picture," Mrs. Milton told her, wiping away a sentimental tear. "When I was a girl we thought we weren't married right unless we wore white satin and a long veil, but I declare, no one could mistake you for anything but a bride this minute. Listen, dear, there's the doorbell," she went on rapidly. "My hair's a sight so you go. There's a good child."

Susan flung open the door, prepared to speed some luckless vender of books on his way. Could she be dreaming? There before her stood Bob Dunbar.

"May I come in for a moment?" he asked coolly. "But I see you were going out. Perhaps I can walk along with you."

"I wasn't going out," answered Susan, confused. "I just tried these things on." She bit her lip, annoyed at having made this naive admission.

"All the better then because I want to talk to you for a bit," the young man repeated.

Susan led him into the comfortable Milton living room. She put up a hand to remove the little hat but Bob stopped her.

"Please don't take it off," he begged. "It suits you. Do you know you look marvelous in that turnout?"

"Thank you," said Susan gravely. She was feasting her eyes on the precious outline of his lean face, crested with unruly fair hair.

"Sit down, won't you?"

"I do much better standing," said Bob. "I've had the deuce of a time finding you. Why did you stage an escape scene that night of the ball? You didn't even leave a Cinderella slipper."

"There was nothing else to do," said Susan gravely.

THE young man set his jaw. "I don't see that," he muttered. "I had only just found you. There wasn't any point in running off like that."

Susan twisted her hands and tried to avoid his eyes. "You

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE THRIFTLESS

The birds are building them a nest,
The birds that wear a crimson vest.
That is, they'd like to, but a sparrow
Just hangs around, their hearts to harrow.
The sparrow says, that bird of sin,
"When they get through, then I'll move in.
Why build a nest, with branches o'er me,
When other birds will build it for me?"

The robins are a worried pair:
They flit and flutter here and there,
They cheep in accents disapproving.
And often even think of moving.
But I have known this little scene
A dozen springs in trees of green,
And, though the sparrow thinks he's clever,
At last he'll have no house whatever.

And there are people like the birds
Who imitate the sparrow's words,
Who idly watch a busy neighbor
And hope to profit by his labor.
But, when the rain comes from the west,
They find themselves without a nest,
And then like sparrows they sit sobbin'
Yes, sit around and blame the robin.

The most dangerous thing in the world is the spirit of nationalism, and, if it does not give place to internationalism, I doubt if civilization will survive.

—Bertrand Russell.

We can no more have a nation half drunk and half sober than in the days of Lincoln was it possible to have a nation half slave and half free.

It is evident that prohibition has not only failed to decrease drunkenness, but that arrests for intoxication have been steadily increasing until they have reached the highest point in American history.

What the world needs is an enormous lot of good laughs. America has more of everything than anyone else. We could have anything. Instead, we sit moodily in a corner and deny that the things we could have are good for us or that the things we want are pleasant.

Do You Remember?

When the late Edward Gaynor owned the Ludington hotel? Mr. Gaynor afterwards sold the hotel to John Christie. Upon Mr. Christie's death, his son James operated it for many years until disposing of it to E. A. Van Ornum, Iron River; C. A. Robinson, Ironwood, and Ray Perring, Escanaba, the present owners.

Who was the tallest man who ever lived in Escanaba? He was I. K. Harring, for many years superintendent of the Chicago and North Western railway paint shops, who was six feet six inches in height.

When the walks on Ludington street were made of planks? The building entrances were elevated from the sidewalks, and the doorsteps were used by merchants for merchandise displays.

When the North Western railway operated a boat line between Green Bay and Escanaba? This was from 1863 to 1872 when there was no track between the two cities. The North Western first built a line from Negaunee to Escanaba for the transportation of iron ore, and did not lay the Escanaba-Green Bay line until the early seventies. The Dunlap and Saginaw, both sidewheelers, were used on the boat line.

Hats in the Ring

Albert C. Ritchie's prospects as a candidate for the presidential nomination are sketched in this, the fifth of a series of six articles dealing with democratic possibilities.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington, (AP)—The tall silk tile of patricianborn Albert Cabell Ritchie shines through the dust kicked up in the democratic presidential ring by the whirling wheels of the Roosevelt band wagon.

For the third time the hat of the Maryland governor is in the presidential ring. But the cards of political chance may be stacked against its handsome wearer's winning the nomination sweepstakes at Chicago.

Pioneer Anti-Prohibitionist

Pioneer in the anti-prohibition movement and long an outspoken disciple of Jeffersonian states' rights, Ritchie again looks toward the White House while his lambasting of what he terms federal bureaucracy seems to have fallen for the first time on a large number of sympathetic ears.

But again he faces odds piled up against him early in the race by candidates in positions of higher command and of greater strategic value in determining the choice of a nominee and his chances for election.

For, though he is the favorite son of his state, it is among the smallest in the union.

Gained Attention in 1924

Ritchie, a 1924 candidate, went to the Madison Square Garden convention as a very successful governor who had attracted some national attention by his bold denunciation of prohibition and other legislation which he saw as federal encroachments upon the power of the states. During the McAdoo-Smith ballot battle, he rolled up 42 votes.

In 1928 he was overshadowed by Alfred E. Smith, who as governor of New York was in superior strategic position and had a more extended political organization. Ritchie gracefully stood aside for the Smith parade, withdrawing his candidacy before the Houston convention.

Hopes As 'Dark Horse'

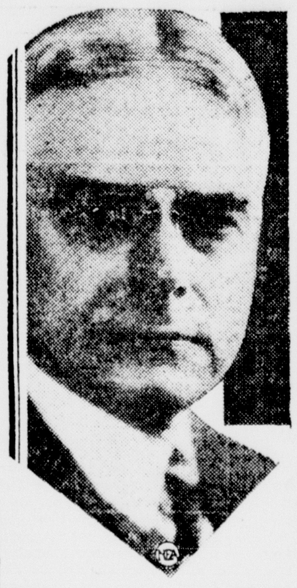
He now makes his third bid for the party's highest honor as a favorite son whose supporters are hoping that if a leading candidate is not nominated in the early balloting the search for a dark horse may turn to him.

Again the figure of a New York governor eclipses that of the Maryland executive. This time it is one with the politically potent name of Roosevelt.

Ritchie's national status springs largely from his career as a governor, early and vigorous opposition to prohibition and constant championship of local self-determination in government.

Admirers cite what they term his candor, his political courage in standing for principles that were not nationally popular and his ability as an executive.

He announced his 1932 candidacy with what friends say is typical Ritchie forthrightness:



"Of course I would like to be president; who would not?"

Stood By His Guns

Ritchie leaped into the national puddle with quite a splash in 1922 when at the governors' conference on prohibition enforcement called by President Harding he demanded that the question be returned to the states. His backers say that most politicians in that day considered his position suicidal. But he stood by his guns.

Rated a conservative, he nevertheless is popular with all classes in his own state. An increasing majority of the people of Maryland have registered its willingness to place the government in his hands for 15 consecutive years.

The concluding article of this series will discuss William H. Murray as a possible democratic presidential nominee.

Veterans Can't Get Free Fish Licenses

There is no provision in Michigan law which permits the issuance of free fishing licenses to World War Veterans, according to the Department of Conservation.

A rumor has spread recently which has resulted in numerous inquiries of the department as to whether World War Veterans may procure a fishing license free of charge or at a reduced fee. Some of the inquiries have come from outside the state.

Although such provisions are included in the laws of some other states, no resident trout fishermen or non-residents fishing in Michigan waters are exempt from purchasing a license.

The following students were successful in passing the 7th grade examinations held at the high school last Thursday: Gordon Heafield, Priscilla Farley, Ellen Bureau, Lorraine Tatrow, Elizabeth Desrochers, Elizabeth Bernier, James Stellwagen, Stanley Cousineau, Lorraine Thibault. The first five of these were sixth graders of merit, and will consequently skip the seventh grade work. Roland Boudreau has been their teacher during the past year.

Word has been received here that Alex McDonald of Fayette, and Mrs. Carrie Kitts of Manistique, were quietly united in matrimony about three weeks ago at the home of the latter's brother, Lou Messenger of Marquette. Mrs. McDonald was a former resident of Fayette and with her husband is now occupying the Charles Gardipee farm home at Burnt Bluff, Fayette, located near to her former home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Abel of Escanaba, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Mary Hennessey. Sunday afternoon they took Mrs. Hennessey and made a brief visit at the home of Mrs. Cashum of Puffy Creek.

Pupils of the seventh grade of the Kates' Bay school, Garden, were entertained at a theatre party at Gladstone Saturday night by their teacher, Miss Mellon. The class included Della and Morgan Farley, Jeanette Adams and Marguerite Thibault.

U. P. INDUSTRY SHOWS PICK-UP

Various Small Plants Reopen and Ship Their Products

Revival of industrial activity on a somewhat substantial scale in several communities of the upper peninsula is revealed in various movements of freight traffic over this division of the Chicago and North Western railway this month, D. B. McIntyre, assistant superintendent, reports.

The Metro-Nite Products company of Milwaukee, manufacturers of a fine texture talcum powder, opened their quarry near Felch yesterday and will ship seven carloads of dolomite ore to Milwaukee Saturday. About a dozen men are employed in the quarrying operations. No shipments have been made since last spring.

Iron Ore Shipments

Fourteen carloads of iron ore from an Ishpeming mine will be delivered today to the blast furnace of the Delta Chemical and Iron company, near Wells, which resumes operations this week. No information has been received yet as to when the first ore boat will arrive here, however.

The North Western railway has delivered a half dozen carloads of veneer logs to the wood working mill at Ingalls for the manufacture of cheese boxes. This plant has not been operated for about a year.

Increased activity at the White House Milk company's condensery at Stephenson is also noted. Dairy farmers in that region have increased their milk production to enable the processing plant to ship out one specially-built tank car daily instead of only twice per week. The processed milk is shipped to the White House company's plant in Manitowoc, Wis., where it is placed into cans, labeled and sent to distributing warehouses of the company. The Stephenson plant is buying all the milk that can be supplied by the farmers, it is reported.

Fence Posts Move

Increased demand for fence posts to supply the needs of farmers throughout the country has resulted in considerable freight movement, Mr. McIntyre states. For the last year, there has been no demand for posts and about two hundred carloads have accumulated at the various landings on the peninsula division. Within the last three weeks, however, the stock piles have been depleted. The shipments have been made to almost every state in the union, Iowa, Texas and Oklahoma receiving the largest percentage.

The forest products movement continues on the Whitefish branch, and is expected to last three weeks more. Two trips weekly are being made on the Whitefish branch, and 30 carloads brought in on each run. A unusual situation has developed on the main line, from Brampton to Little Lake, as shipments of logs are scheduled to extend until late in the summer. Most of the logs are to be received by the I. Stephenson company.

Price of Passport $10 Instead of $6

Trips abroad will cost $4 more for those who did not secure their passport before May 16. Effective on that date, the county clerk's office at Escanaba announces that the price of passports became $10 instead of $6.

Notification of the increased rate came from the government bureau, in a communication to all passport agencies.

Will Ask for Bids On School Repairs

Specifications for the redecorating of the Jefferson, Barr and Washington schools and the reroofing of the Franklin school may be procured from the office of Supt. R. E. Cheney today.

Advertising for bids will be done this week, and bids will close May 26. The work is to start June 20 and is to be completed July 15.

Escanaba Motorist Figures in Accident

Iron Mountain—Frank Bartlett, 42, farmer residing near Waucedah, in Dickinson county, was brought to the Dickinson county jail following an accident in which he received severe bruises about the right leg and body when the rig and team he was driving was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Clarence Olive, 520 First avenue, Escanaba.

Bartlett, according to Olive, was driving the rig in the dark and with no lights. Olive had swung to the right to pass an oncoming car and crashed into the rig. Bartlett was thrown out, but hung onto the reins and was dragged a considerable distance before he released his hold.

Olive picked up Bartlett and brought him to Iron Mountain. He reported the accident to the state police and Bartlett was placed under arrest. Authorities at the jail said that the man was under the influence of liquor when brought in.

Bartlett was unable to walk when state troopers called at the jail to take him into court. Disposition of his case was dependent upon an examination of his injured leg.

2 TIRES for the price of 1

2nd Shipment

Who said lightning never strikes twice in the same place? May 7th Gamble Stores announced two tires for the list price of one—or at less than inner tube prices in 1926! The response was instantaneous . . People who NEVER attended bargain events were here FIRST IN LINE. Again and again we beseiged our warehouse for tires—More tires—MORE tires—QUICK! A two week's supply sold out in two days. Why not? We met and outdistanced all challengers in the tire field—in the finest first line tires; high-grade second line; and excellent third line. Naturally, the news travelled like a prairie fire. . . . A SECOND SHIPMENT IS HERE. But we repeat, the number of low priced tires is so limited that we can't possibly take care of everybody. It's a case of first come, first served. Hurry—Tomorrow.

Business Club Will Assist in Forest Project

Cooperation with the Munising Business and Professional Women's club in the government project of planting trees in the national forest preserve near Munising, was pledged Monday evening by the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's club at its regular meeting.

The meeting was held at William H. Needham's Neco lodge, on the Bay Shore road, and was attended by forty members.

Supper was served at the lodge at 7 o'clock, the club members thoroughly enjoying the ideal arrangement of the lodge and its surroundings. Following the supper a business meeting was held, and the remainder of the evening was spent in enjoying cards, dancing and assembly singing.

At the business meeting final plans were made in connection with Escanaba's representation at the convention of Michigan clubs to be held in Kalamazoo the last of the month. Miss Alice Kvam, president of the club, will be its delegate to the convention, and Mrs. Lillian H. Reynolds, prominent club member, will appear on the convention program.

In connection with the forestry project, the club pledged its support in the planting on one and one-half acres of trees, the plot to be set off and dedicated to the Business and Professional Women's clubs of northern Michigan, with a suitable marker designating it.

A report on the successful card party held recently was given. Committee appointments made at the meeting will be announced later.

Miss Florence Jewel of Rhinelander, Wis., is a guest here of Miss Marie Trotter, 523 South Ninth street. Miss Jewel was formerly a teacher in the Escanaba public schools.

Heslip-Kholiman

Miss Olive Heslip, daughter of Mrs. Sara Heslip, 1711 Second avenue north, became the bride of Alfred Kholiman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kholiman, 924 South Fourteenth street, at a ceremony performed Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at St. Patrick's parsonage, Rev. Father John Mockler officiating.

The attendants were Miss Una Heslip, sister of the bride, and Norbert Cotnoir, a close friend.

The bride wore a gown of blue chiffon and her flowers were sweet peas in pastel shades. Her bridesmaid was attired in a gown of pink lace and she carried sweet peas.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Kholiman will make their home in Escanaba. Mr. Kholiman is employed at the Coliseum.

Mission Church Conferences to Open Here Today

The annual meeting of the Northwest Michigan Conference and the semi-annual meeting of the Ministerial association of the Swedish Mission church will open here today with pastors from all parts of the district in attendance as well as delegates of the various churches.

The meeting opens this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Swedish Mission church which will be the conference headquarters. Sessions of the two gatherings will continue through Sunday.

The address of welcome will be given by Rev. Oscar F. Dahlberg, pastor of the Escanaba church, and the conference sermon will be delivered by Rev. F. A. L. Lindholm.

Morning and afternoon meetings will be held during the conference with services in the evening. On Sunday there will be Sunday School at 9:30 o'clock, the morning worship at 10:45 o'clock and the evening service at 7 o'clock. The Swedish Mission church choir and the members of the male quartet will sing at the services.

Among the visiting pastors, who will speak at the conference meetings are Rev. J. A. Carlson, Ashland, Wis.; Rev. J. H. Hanson, Florence, Wis.; Rev. P. T. Nelson, Marinette; Rev. K. E. Pearson, Ironwood; Rev. O. G. Johnson, Stephenson; Rev. S. G. Carlson, Ishpeming, president of the Northwest conference; Rev. Vernon Benson, Calumet; Rev. D. H. Bergstrom, Negaunee, and Rev. J. O. Gustafson, Norway, president of the Ministerial association.

The public is invited to attend the meetings.

Theatres

Refreshing in its satire and one of the most enjoyable comedy dramas presented in recent weeks, "Beauty And The Boss," a Warner Bros. production, began an engagement at the Delft Theatre yesterday.

Warren William and Marian Marsh, last seen together in "Under Eighteen," are co-featured, with dry-faced Charles Butterworth as the comedy lead. Besides these, there is a strong supporting cast, including David Manners, Lilian Bond, Frederick Kerr, Mary Doran and Polly Walters.

"Beauty And The Boss" was adapted for the screen from "A Church Mouse," a reigning Broadway hit by Paul Frank and Ladislaus Fodor, Hungarian playwrights. Joseph Jackson, one of Hollywood's most skillful screen writers, adapted it for the screen, and Roy Del Ruth, whose most recent successes were "Blonde Crazy" and "Taxi," starring Jimmy Cagney, directed it.

The theme of the story is that of an ill-dressed, but beautiful secretary who finds that the busy bee must transform herself into a butterfly in order to find love. Her employer, a master of men and money, is a puppet in the hands of women and, in her efforts to protect him, she unconsciously falls in love with him herself.

The story has some daring moments, but they have been handled so delicately by Director Del Ruth that they charm rather than shock.

Favorite Recipe

Betty Ann

Mrs. Oscar Peterson, whose ability in cooking is well known, and whose recipes have been received with genuine pleasure by Betty Ann Readers, has given the department another group, among them this morning's for apricot rice.

Apricot Rice

Two cups canned or stewed dried apricots.
Two cups cooked rice
One cup brown sugar
Two eggs
Two cups milk

Place apricots in bottom of buttered pudding dish. Cover with rice. Beat the eggs until light and add the brown sugar. Scald the milk and pour over the egg mixture slowly. Add to the rice and apricots. Bake in a moderate oven.

The pudding dish should be set in a pan of hot water. A silver knife inserted in this mixture should come out clean when the pudding is done. If dried fruit is used it should be sweetened to taste. Serve cold with cream. Apples may be used instead of apricots.

A Book A Day

By Bruce Catton

For the fatalistic—those quaking mortals who never crawl into a Pullman berth without the fear of a train wreck just outside of Albany or Troy—here is a book to be recommended. It is: "What Time Is It?", by the young Russian engineer, M. Hin.

The writer, whose "New Russian Primer" was hailed last year, has covered the romance of the clock from the relatively important watch of the express train engineer back to Brother Augustin's unreliable Psalter.

The book's reassuring message surely would put the most popeyed passenger to sleep in serene confidence. What ineffable solace to know that Brother Augustin was not the train dispatcher!

Brother Augustin told the time by his holy book of psalms. During the still watches of the night, good old Augustin read his Psalter until he reached the words: "To the leader of the chorus of Idifumov. Psalm of Asaphs." Thereupon he would dash to the belfry and set up a din with the bell to wake up the brothers for morning service.

Brother Augustin, however, was not altogether free from such sins of the flesh as overeating and overdrinking. Occasionally he would nod over his tome and the sun would be high in the sky ere the brothers awakened.

It is just as well Augustin's perusals do not govern the switch-throwing for one of the 18-hour New York-Chicago flyers. Isn't that joyous enough philosophy to lull the most pessimistic Pullman wakefulness?

M. Hin's book, in which the story of Augustin is one of a hundred romantic little stories on time-telling, wrote his work for Russian youth, factory workers and peasants. But it is a book in which adults can find pleasant recreation.

St. Anne's P-T Unit Will Meet This Evening

A special program has been arranged for this evening's meeting of St. Anne's Parent-Teacher unit which will be held in the school hall beginning at the usual hour.

The meeting will be featured by an address on "That Delightful Fellow, the American Boy," by A. L. Pierce of the College of St. Thomas, St. Paul, and there will be a report on the Michigan Parent-Teacher convention by Mrs. Arthur Peterson who represented all units of the city at the convention.

The program of entertainment to be given by pupils of the school is as follows:

Sacred Heart Parish Planning Special Program

Elaborate plans for the celebration by Sacred Heart church of Schaffer, Rev. Father Philip de Neri Jutras, pastor, of the feast day of Corpus Christi which will be on Sunday, May 29.

Impressive services in the morning at the parish church will open the observance of the day. There will be a solemn high mass with the pastor as celebrant at 10 o'clock. Following this will be the impressive outdoor procession of the Blessed Sacrament, a ceremony which takes place each year on this day.

At noon a church dinner, to which the general public is cordially invited, will be served by the women of the parish in the basement of the church. The afternoon will be given over to games, contests and other outdoor amusements, details of which will be announced later.

The observance will be of unusual interest and will, as it has in years past, attract a large attendance from Schaffer and its neighboring communities.

TO MAKE RADIO SURVEY IN CITY

Mayor Eriksen Urges Co-operation in Ridding Interference

In response to complaints made by radio owners at a recent meeting of the city council, Mayor Harry Ericksen is about to begin an exhaustive survey of all sources of radio interference it became known yesterday. In remedying the situation Mayor Eriksen urges the cooperation of all concerned as its success will be largely determined by the support received. Materials to be used to eliminate interference will be supplied by the city at cost, cost of installation must be assumed by the owner.

Brault Photo
Eriksen

In an open letter to citizens of the community, Harry Eriksen, mayor and acting city manager, makes the following statements:

An Open Letter

We are about to begin a survey of all sources of radio interference in our city due to the use of electrical tools equipment, short circuits, and other overhead disturbances that can be remedied. In this connection we are asking the support and assistance of all our citizens and the business men in particular.

When the survey shall have been completed we will furnish each person concerned with a list of materials and labor required to remedy the condition causing such interference, and found in his place of business. The materials the city will undertake to furnish at cost and the total installation will in most cases be negligible, but must be assumed by the owner. After the eliminating filters have been installed on the motors operating your electrical devices, same will be inspected by the city at no cost to you.

For the benefit of all radio owners and prospective owners, I would urge your solid backing of this program, knowing full well that without your assistance and approval our program will be a failure from the start. Our investigators will be furnished with the proper credentials from the city so you may know with whom you are dealing.

Harry Eriksen,
Mayor & Acting Mgr.

Vern Coffey, local electrician who has had a great deal of experience in locating radio interference and who has recently been employed in eliminating interference at Sault Ste. Marie, discusses the subject as follows:

Ever since wireless, now called radio, has been known to the amateur, the subject of inductive interference has been known to him, but little is understood of it by the listening public, except that it spoils reception.

Can Be Cleared

Since the advent of broadcasting and more sensitive sets, this interference problem has become greater. And now, with our supersensitive sets the owner will not be satisfied with the answer, "It is not in the set but outside interference." The interference can be cleared and kept clear.

The public can do more to further this end than anyone else. There are certain types of electrical equipment on the market which will cause more interference than all the equipment of the electric light company's system. Yet the interference is carried over the light and telephone companies lines and often intensified. It is a condition over which the companies have no control.

If you own a piece of electrical apparatus that causes interference it does not mean that you should junk it and purchase new. By installing a filter of a type to carry the load, of which there are several on the market, you will eliminate the interference and in no way impair the operation of the apparatus. In fact, the filter is a protection to it.

It seems that the most common complaint and one which is the most ungrounded of all is, "A leaky transformer in front of my house." Judging from my own experience and the experience of those I have come in contact with, I do not believe a transformer will leak anything but oil. It will burn out first. I am convinced—by experience—that the only place to kill interference is at its source. You cannot kill it after it gets out on the lines.

It is hoped that this may help impress upon your minds the necessity of co-operation and help those that are having their reception spoiled by avoidable interference.

J. V. Coffey.

McNamara-McNally

Miss Louise McNamara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McNamara, became the bride of Don McNally, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNally, Monday morning at 6:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the St. Francis de Sales church with the Rev. B. J. P. Schevers reading the service.

Miss Helen Katzenstein and Emmet McNamara were the witnesses.

The bride was charming in blue cape romaine dress with white accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of yellow daisies. The bridesmaid wore a blue crepe dress and carried a bouquet of yellow and maroon snapdragins.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the grooms' home for members of the bridal party.

Mr. and Mrs. McNally are making their home at 226 Range street.

SCHOOL FUNDS RECEIVED HERE

$14,947.64 Distributed to City, Township Schools

Receipts totaling $14,947.64, Schoolcraft county's allotment of the state school aid fund, were received Monday by Laura A. Williams, county treasurer and were immediately distributed to the schools of the various townships.

This year's allotment is over $2,500.00 more than that received in 1931. Several of the township schools were in urgent need of their allotment. Houghton county lead all others in the upper peninsula in the amount received while Delta county ranked second.

Apportionment to the city and townships in Schoolcraft county as announced by Webster H. Pearce, superintendent of public instruction, is as follows:

Doyle	$ 1,512.76
Germfask	689.04
Inwood	2,262.00
Manistique, City	10,341.86
Mueller	141.98
Total	$14,947.64

CITY BRIEFS

Rev. Joseph Grosa was dismissed from the Shaw hospital Sunday and is now recuperating at his home, 203 South Maple avenue.

Vern Linderoth motored to Munising Sunday to accompany his wife home. Mrs. Linderoth has been visiting in Munising for the past week.

Mrs. Albert Huebscher and Mrs. Otto Winkle of Cooks visited in the city yesterday with Mrs. Bert Hulshof.

Miss Jewell Dean Dahms is convalescing very favorably at her home, Pearl street, after being ill for two weeks.

Miss Ruth Wilson has arrived from Palm Beach, Florida, where she spent the winter with Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Trownsell. Miss Wilson will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wood during the summer.

Jack Ryan, jr., visited in the city with relatives Sunday before returning to his home at Munising.

Wesley Orr returned to Marquette Monday morning after spending the week-end in the city visiting with his family.

Louis Shellhouse is reported as being very ill. Mr. Shellhouse is living at the Albert Dean home, 203 Schoolcraft avenue.

S. P. Reid visited with Mrs. Reid and with his daughter, Mrs. Ed Trigg in Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin, over the week-end.

Mrs. Katherine King has returned to the city after spending the past several days visiting in Munising.

Miss Ella Sandstrom recently submitted to an operation for appendicitis at the St. Francis hospital at Escanaba, and is now resting easily.

Mrs. Delia Beaudette, Escanaba, is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. William Barker, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Heinz, Mr. and Mrs. James Chandanais and son, Lawrence, returned the latter part of the week from Pontiac where they were called by the illness of Arthur Chandanais. Mr. Chandanais is reported as being very much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Curley and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Chittenden, were guests of relatives and friends in Munising Sunday.

Fred Hicks Speaks To Local Rotarians

Fred G. Hicks, lay reader at St. Alban's Episcopal Mission, was the guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club at the Elks' temple Monday noon.

Speaking on the subject of "Boys' Work," Mr. Hicks delivered an interesting and fine address. Among other things, Mr. Hicks declared that boys' work begins in the home and that boys' work should not be observed only for a single week, but should command our attention at all times.

Jupe Pluvius Cuts Openers in Diamond Ball Loop Monday

Old Jupe Pluvius put a crimp in the opening of the Manistique Diamond ball league Monday evening when both eastside and westside games were shortened by the downpour.

On the eastside, however, the Schuster Grocers managed to sneak over a win on the Creighton Fords after three and one-half innings had been played. The contest was a slugfest from start to finish with the Grocers on the long end of a 19-9 count. Van Anderson and Shampine formed the battery for Schusters while Clyde Hutt, Halsey, and Connie Graphos were the mainstays for the Fords.

Rain stopped the Norton-Lauerman game at the end of the third inning with the former leading by a 9-0 score. Because of the fact that three and one-half innings had not been played, the contest was called no game. A completed game consists of three and one-half innings when the losing team has been at bat in the first half of the fourth. The postponed contest is expected to be played Friday evening.

Eldon Norton, hurling for the Specials, pitched in mid-season form and Lauermans never had a look-in against last year's champs. Bede Holland was on the receiving end of Norton's shoots. Milo Jones and Joe Brunet formed the battery for the Lauerman Specials

VOTE FOR YEARS BUT LACK RIGHT

Several Gladstone Residents Unable to Prove Citizenship

Men and women who have voted for years under the impression that they were citizens are discovering that they do not possess the rights of citizenship, as the permanent registration of Gladstone voters progresses, according to D. J. Calder, special clerk in charge of registration. Some persons, it is found, made their declaration of intention to become citizens many years ago and believed that this gave them full citizenship. Under the tax registrations laws, they were entered upon the poll books and given the voting privilege.

Under the present law proof of citizenship must be furnished when registration is made and this, of course, they cannot do.

This week registration of voters in the Fourth precinct is being made, with registration headquarters established in the polling booth between Wisconsin and Michigan avenues on 15th street. The registration started Monday and a large number of voters appeared to have their names enrolled. The registration in the Fourth Ward will continue during the remainder of this week.

It is the plan of the city to hold special registration in each of the four wards of the city. The Second Ward registration was held two weeks ago and approximately 75 per cent of the eligible electors presented themselves. The remaining Second Ward electors may go to the Fourth ward booth this week to register.

The hours of registration are from 11 to 12 in the forenoon and from 1:00 to 5:00 and 6:00 to 8:00 in the afternoon.

Boy Vandals Strip Garden Of Flowers

Three boys in their early teens, confessed yesterday that they entered the flower garden owned by Mrs. Chauncey Brown, at 1124 Michigan avenue, and picked more than 100 daffodils which were in bloom. The garden was entirely stripped of tis flowers. Three other boys admitted that they had each taken one flower previously. The wholesale flower theft occurred in Monday night.

The stripping of the garden was reported to police yesterday morning by Mrs. Brown and Chief of Police Kallerson conducted the investigation that resulted in the apprehension and confession of the youngsters.

Chief Kallerson states that the boys were released upon their promise of good behaviour, but warns against any further vandalism. Hereafter, he states, the probate court will deal with those who disregard the property rights of others.

Sidelights

Schoolcraft county residents can thank John E. McCarthy, county engineer, and members of the county road commission for the drawing up of one of the finest road programs of any county in the upper peninsula. Elaborate road plans have been put into operation by other upper peninsula counties, used for a time, and then had to be abondoned because they were plunging the counties into debt. In their efforts to relieve unemployment, engineers and road commissions with the sanction of their respective boards of supervisors, have launched programs far in excess of revenues, plunging counties into debt for years to come.

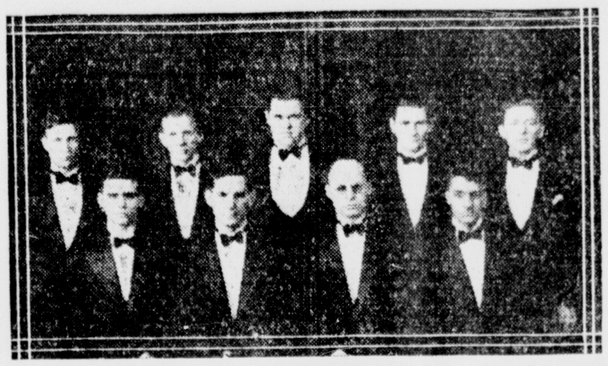
Such is not the case here, however, where an $87,000.00 road program which will give part time employment to approximately 800 men is being put into operation. The entire expenditure will be paid for by March, 1933.

The plan formulated by Mr. McCarthy calls for a cash payment of 60 per cent of the wages hue employes, the remainder to be paid in script which will be redeemable at the road commission office during the winter months when funds from the weight and gas tax have become available. Not only will the program give employment to a greater number of men than could otherwise be employed, but will to a certain extent provide funds during winter months to those who will be without work at that time.

Furthermore, it will relieve to a great measure the burden now carried by the poor commission in that relief now being provided by the county, will be correspondingly lessened by the giving of employment to the needy.

Work to be done will consist of principally the cleaning up of roadsides and the installation of proper drainage systems. This will be done along county roads and forty percent of the township roads which will have been taken over by the county early next year.

WITH COLLEGE GLEE CLUB



Lawrence Van Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Van Horn, 1325 Wisconsin Avenue, Gladstone, and a senior in Albion College, is taking a prominent part in the musical activities of the college. He is a member of the Albion chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, national honorary musical fraternity, and also a member of the Sinfonian Singers.

The Sinfonian Singers, composed of nine men of Albion College, have sung frequently in churches, clubs, and schools in Michigan, often presenting concerts and upon other occasions assisting in programs of the organizations. During the past few weeks some twenty-five such appearances have been made, among the most important being the program presented at the State Convention of the Federation of Music Clubs, which was recently held in Battle Creek.

The activities of the Sinfonian Singers for the present season include, in addition to the program before the Federation of Music Clubs, participation in the Albion Around the World Broadcast in February, a concert at the Central Methodist Episcopal church in Lansing, and an extensive trip with appearances in Ionia, Belding, Big Rapids, Traverse City, Bay City, Saginaw, Port Huron, Pontiac, and Detroit.

DELTA COUNTY FUTURE ROSY

Speaker Is Optimistic Concerning Industrial Possibilities Here

The future of Delta county was painted in optimistic colors last night by Harold J. Lindsay, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, in an address before the Gladstone City Club. The address, dealing with the subject, "The Industrial Possibilities of Delta County," dealt primarily with the industrial assets of the county and those things which the county lack.

Mr. Lindsay pointed to the iron ore resources at "Delta County's doorway," the water power facilities, the water transportation possibilities, and the future needs of industry where men of industry will have room in which to live as a guarantee that the future will find Delta county a center of industrial activity.

In tracing the past in Delta county, Mr. Lindsay showed the evolution that has taken place in the mills which manufacture timber products. In the early day, he said, only the rough lumber was manufactured here, while today all of the mills have been transformed into factories where the lumber is converted into products which were not considered only a few years ago.

Mr. Lindsay cited the Marble Arms and Mfg. Co., of Gladstone as the only Delta county industry which was not dependent in any way upon the resources of this locality.

The steel fabricating possibilitie of the county, Mr. Lindsay said, would depend largely upon the development of new processes in the steel industry. Under the present methods, he pointed out, it required two tons of coal to smelt one ton of ore and the lesser cost of transporting the ore to the coal regions has been largely responsible for the establishment of the steel industry in the coal regions instead of in the ore regions.

This situation, it is believed, he continued, will be changed when the process which has recently been perfected to utilize the electric power to transform the ore comes into general use.

The development of the St. Lawrence waterway was pointed to as another of the vital factors in the future of the county. The completion of that waterway, he said, would place Delta county is a strategic position from the standpoint of world trade. Its harbor and rail facilities would make it the connecting link between the rest of the world and the great midwest.

Beyond its natural facilities, Mr. Lindsay pointed to the economical government in Delta county as an incentive to industry to locate here, Gladstone, he said, has the lowest per capita city tax of any except one city in Michigan and Escanaba is fourth or fifth in the list. Wells township was pointed to as another example of common sense governmental administration, the tax rate there being but $29.54 per thousand for all purposes.

The county's only lack, he said, is supply of certain raw materials and a market that is close at hand. This handicap is offset to a large extent by the superiority of the advantages.

Preceding the address by Mr. Lindsay, Archie Kimber, Menominee baritone, accompanied by Mrs. Kimber first sang, "I'm a Jolly Old Rover." This was followed by "Until" and "Coming Home." Mr. Kimber has an excellent baritone voice and at the request of the club members gave two numbers at the close of the address. These were "Duna" and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride."

H. W. Blackwell, vice president, arranged the program and presided at the meeting.

Additional Gladstone News Will be Founc on Page 8.

OBITUARY

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 17 (AP)—Having little news to go on, stocks see-sawed today. Final changes were irregular and generally narrow, although the market was easing at the close, thus duplicating its course during the first half hour or so.

A persistent rumor that favorable happenings could be expected from Washington acted as a sustaining influence and prompted intermittent covering with the result that at one time leaders had not only erased early losses of 1 to 3 but were selling a little higher. Once more, however, there was no substantiation of vague reports and prices scaled downward much of the afternoon. Volume totaled 933,784 shares.

A. T. & T. Sags

U. S. Steel was notably firm, closing a point higher. General Electric, active, rallied on unofficial estimates of second quarter operating results which said further economies were likely to bring some improvements in net over the first three months on about the same amount of business. American Telephone sagged, rather easily, despite Wall Street expectations that tomorrow's meeting would bring another regular dividend declaration. However, the stock got back more than half of an extreme 2 5-8 point dip.

Rails were sensitive to the weekly freight loadings figures which showed a decrease of 20,335 cars to a total of 533,677, the smallest for any week this year. Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Southern Pacific were down a point, although the first two had been somewhat lower on the early decline.

In specialties, International Shoe and Beatrice Creamery were heavy. Such stocks as Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Du Pont, General Motors, National Biscuit, Woolworth, Consolidated Gas and Westinghouse were little changed on the day.

Sharp contraction of reporting member bank loans continued over the past week. Much of the $137,000,000 drop in earnings assets took place in security loans. The banks did, however, add $7,000,000 of other than government securities to their portfolios while selling $19,000,000 of federal issues.

Trade news was negative. Copper sold at 5 3-8 cents a pound, another record low, while early reports on steel operations for this week said that no change had occurred. "American Metal Market" said, however, that increased production within the next two weeks was probable largely because the Ford company was expanding output.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 17—Piling up of evidence that domestic winter wheat crop prospects had not improved since May 1 gave a vigorous hoist to grain values today.

Wheat rose to about 9 cents a bushel over last week's low, influenced especially by an official report that 65 percent of winter wheat acreage in Nebraska would be abandoned, an amount 20 percent more than the May 1 government forecast. Heavy selling to realize profits, however led to setbacks from top prices.

Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat. Considerable buying of corn against sales of wheat took place at times. Rural offerings of corn were larger.

Provisions responded to upturns of cereals and virtually ignored a downward trend of the hog market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 55¼, bids; July, 56 5-8 to 3-4, 58 3-8 to ½; September, 58½ to 5-8, 60¼ to 3-8; December, 61 3-4, 63 1-8. Corn—July, 32½, 33 to 33 1-8; September, 34 5-8, 35 1-8; December, 34¼, bids.

New York, May 17 (AP)—Corporation bonds put up a modest show of resistance today but were handicapped somewhat by a softening tendency in United States government obligations. The result was that the averages for 60 selected securities again recorded a new low for the year with a loss of two-tenths of a point.

Liquidation of government loans accompanied the meeting in Washington of the federal reserve board and rumors that the system might relax its purchases of national issues. Those rumors later were denied.

The second-grade railroad list exhibited early strength following the news of the interstate commerce commission's approval of a loan to the Baltimore & Ohio of $25,500,000. On top of this, however, came the report of freight car loadings for the week ending May 7, which disclosed a drop of some 20,000 from the preceding week. After various ups and downs, the average for 20 principal carrier bonds ended the day at exactly the same figure as yesterday.

Gladstone News

Legion to Provide Ground for Gardens

Plans to provide garden plots for the Gladstone unemployed were launched Monday night at the meeting of the August Mattson Post of the American Legion. Acreage is to be secured from the Soo Line and plowed and made ready for planting by the Legion organization. The unemployed are to be given the privilege of using a portion of the ground.

Just how much land is to be provided is not yet known. The Soo Line land that has been assured contains about two acres. Other land suitable for garden purposes is being sought by the Legion.

The committee in charge of the proposition was named as follows: H. J. Skogquist, Shirley Davis and J. A. Sturgeon.

THEATRES

Is it fair for a woman to use the power of her femininity in business? This is one of the interesting problems in the First National's story of modern business and love, "Big Business Girl," starring Loretta Young, which comes to the Rialto Theatre tonight only.

Dorothy Mackail caps the climax of brilliant characterizations in "Party Husband" the First National comedy-drama of modern marriage, which comes to the Rialto Theatre tonight only. She was willing to share her husband in theory, but discovered that practice is not quite the same as theory. His ideas were the same, until—but that's the story. An ultra-modern story, which is as human as it is sophisticated. Don't miss "Party Husband."

SHORTHAND STUDENT

Gordon Nelson, son of Rev. and Mrs. N. W. Nelson, 607 Michigan avenue, has been presented a bronze tablet by the Gregg Publishing company, as a reward for winning a 60 word Gregg shorthand contest conducted among first year commercial students of the Gladstone schools. Thirty-two students participated in the contest.

To Plant Gardens

Marquette—Answering an appeal made yesterday to the Rotary club by S. R. Elliott, of Ishpeming, manager of the mining department of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, the city commission took definite steps to start a "plant-a-garden" campaign in this city for the purpose of producing food for families of unemployed men next fall and winter.

Describing conditions in the mining industry in Marquette county as "extremely serious" and pointing out that "the welfare of every person and establishment in this county is directly or indirectly tied up to the welfare of the mining industry," Mr. Elliott pleaded with the Rotary club, as an organization representative of the business interests of this city, to lend its influence and support to a gardening project.

Adopt Ordinances At Special Session

At a special meeting of the city commission Monday night, the annual Budget Ordinance and an ordinance providing for the licensing of taxicabs and busses were adopted. The new taxi law provides for a license fee of $10 for each cab or bus and compels the posting of a surety bond for the protection of the public. Routes and fares of bus lines must be approved by the commission before a license is granted.

The commission also repealed an ordinance adopted a year ago which provided a license fee of $25.00 for trucking concerns and dray lines. This ordinance was adopted primarily for the protection of the residents in the east part of the city who were required to remove to new locations after the sale of their property to the Ford Motor company.

City Manager F. R. Buechner submitted the balance sheets for April 30 to the commission. Cash balances of $19,480.69 in the accounts of the city were shown. This is the smallest amount of cash held by the city for several years. Increased delinquent taxes, delinquent water and electric accounts and increased expenditures during the past year are responsible for the decrease in cash.

SOFT BALL LEAGUE

Six errors by his team mates, while Kernz was pitching airtight ball, brought defeat to the Marble Arms in their opening game with Men's Wear Monday night. Kernz let his opponents down with six hits and struck out two, while Ducheney, pitching for the Men's Wear struck out nine and allowed 8 hits. Only one error was chalked up against the Men's Wear team. The score was 9 to 4 in favor of Men's Wear.

The Monday night game was the opening tilt in the Gladstone soft ball league, Judge A. D. Alguier, czar of the local circuit, was on hand to participate in the ceremonies incident to getting the season under way.

The summaries:
Men's Wear ..112 310 1—9 6 1
Marble Arms .. 102 000 1—4 8 6

Batteries: Men's Wear, Ducheney and Swan; Marble Arms, Kernz and Laidlaw.

Umpires: Kegel and Mattson.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

WHEREAS, the City Manager has duly filed and submitted to the Council the Annual Budget as provided by the City Charter for the ensuing fiscal year;

RESOLVED, That said budget be forthwith printed for public distribution as required by the Charter.

FURTHER RESOLVED, That in accordance with the City Charter, the Council hereby fixes the date of May 24th, 1932, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P. M. for the public hearing on said budget as submitted and at said hearing an opportunity will be given all persons interested therein to be heard.

FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Clerk publish in the Escanaba Daily Press, circulating in the City, a copy of this resolution in two consecutive issues, before the day set for the hearing.

Adopted by the Council at a meeting held May 4th 1932.

CARL E. ANDERSON,
City Clerk.

mustn't talk that way," she said rapidly. "I can't let you. It's not right."

His laugh rang out. "Who says it isn't right?"

"I do."

"Look here, my girl!" With a single long stride he was at her side. He dropped to one knee, bringing his face on a level with Susan's. "We've got to cut out this nonsense. We're wasting time. I thought we settled all this that night."

"Nothing was settled," Susan said, trembling at his nearness. She could catch the scent of expensive tobacco and shaving soap and Russian leather. His blue eyes, dancing wickedly, were dangerously close to hers.

"I thought you were bright," he mocked her. "I thought you knew what I was talking about." His voice lowered, softened. Into it crept the lover's note that Susan had heard once before.

"My girl," he muttered, covering her clasped hands with one of his own. "My own darling."

Susan's heart melted to him utterly but she sat, rigid and apparently composed.

"Sweetheart, look at me!" Bob commanded.

Unwillingly she turned her eyes to his. "You mustn't," she warned him. "I've no right to listen. You've forgotten—"

"Forgotten what?"

The flush ran over her pale skin clear down to the point where the creamy throat was swallowed up in the aureole of pale fur.

"This—" Susan indicated her outfit. "This is the costume I've chosen for my wedding."

"Your wedding! I won't have it," Dunbar stormed. "You belong to me and to nobody else."

CURB MARKET GOES FORWARD

New York, May 17 (AP)—The curb market moved forward moderately today, in a rather uncertain and straggling fashion. The volume for the day of 130,000 shares was about 30,000 less than yesterday's.

The more active issues fluctuated rather erratically. Electric Bond and Share, which was turned over in considerable volume, ranged betewen a loss of 5-8 and a gain of 5-8, and closed up ¼, net. American Gas and Electric followed a similar wobbly course, and closed ½ point higher. Commonwealth Edison dropped 3 points, then recovered to finish up a fraction.

Standard of Indiana was a firm spot in the oils, rising to 19¼, the best price of the year, and closing at 19, up 5-8 net. Gulf rose ¾, then reacted to close unchanged. An easier tendency in the Chicago bulk gaso'ine market was a less favorable development in the petroleum situation.

Industrials and specialties, mostly lightly traded, were highly mixed. Great Atlantic and Pacific sold at 112, off 3, a new low. Deere rose a fraction, as the grain market remained firm. Brillo, which reported first quarter earnings of less than 15 cents a share, eased a fraction. Woolworth, Ltd., was firm.

HURONS DEFEAT MICHIGAN NINE

Three Pitchers Unable To Hold Normal in Check, Score, 3 to 1

Ypsilanti, Mich., May 17 (AP)—Grouping three of their four hits in the last two innings, Michigan Normal College's baseball nine scored its second triumph of the season over the University of Michigan here this afternoon, 3 to 1. The Hurons won the first game, 5 to 4.

Michigan used three pitchers, Capt. Jack Tompkins and McKay getting by the first six innings with but one hit and no runs taken from their delivery. McNeal, ace of the Wolverine staff, took up the pitching burden in the seventh and walked Christy and Cohan, the first two men to face him. He retired Seitz and Packard on strikes, but Bailey singled two runs across. Normal's final run came in the eighth inning, Christy's safety scoring Michaelis who had doubled.

While "Lefty" Michaelis allowed seven hits he kept the safeties well scattered. Three sacrifices, one of them a safety on Seitz's error, following Tompkins' single, gave Michigan its only run in the third inning.

ried departure being made to New York on one occasion in response to a telephone call, he said in an interview after the body of the child had been found, murdered. The minister met in New York with persons, he said, who offered to restore the baby for $500 cash and $50,000 ransom on delivery, but the negotiators abandoned the offer for better clues.

Curtis, said early in the negotiations to have been the member of the trio approached by "go-betweens," is a former president of the Norfolk Country Club and is president of the German club. He is known to have suffered financial reverses in 1931 when the boat and engine business went into banktrupcy, but it was later re-organized. He enlisted the aid of the other two men.

The negotiations, said by the negotiators to have started March 9, were revealed to the public March 24 after a return from a visit to Colonel Lindbergh at his home. Frequent statements of "progress" and messages that the baby was "alive and well" were reported. It was always Curtis who made the "actual contacts."

Story Didn't Jibe

Questioning of Curtis in New Jersey was at the suggestion of Norfolk police officials after they reported they were unable to find the boat or certain persons mentioned by Curtis in a statement given to New Jersey officials after the body of the child was found.

Lindbergh was with Curtis on the sea when the announcement of the finding of the tiny body was made.

Chief Ironmonger said Curtis mentioned as the kidnapers' boat a vessel named Terasa Salvatore. The vessel could not be found. Curtis described an automobile which he said was used by the kidnapers or "go-betweens." Chief Chief Ironmonger said the description fitted Curtis' own car, Murray "Dynamite" Thursdale, an alleged rum runner who Chief Ironmonger said was named by Curtis as a principal in the group with whom he was dealing, is being sought in connection with the case.

Director of Public Safety Borland, who conducted with Chief Ironmonger the investigation here, said "all of our investigations since the body of the baby was found led to the belief that there could not have been any foundation for the statements he originally made to the New Jersey state police.

"The two New Jersey investigators who left here today after three days' investigation, cooperating with us, were of the same opinion. We were furnished leads from New Jersey to run down relating to names of persons, boats, automobiles and telephone calls and our checks showed exactly what Curtis has now admitted. We relayed this information to Colonel Schwarzkopf at Hopewell as we developed each point.

"We did not touch the case until after the baby's body was found, and that night Colonel Schwarzkopf requested our cooperation, which has been carried out under the direction of Chief Ironmonger and myself."

Dean Dobson-Peacock, who was brought into the case because he knew the Morrow family in Mexico City, was evidently dumbfounded by the news of his associate's confession.

"I relied on Mr. Curtis absolutely," said the rector of the fashionable Episcopal Christ church here. "I know Curtis has been under a terrific strain for the last two months, but I had no inkling whatever of what has been revealed in the dispatch read to me."

The clergyman said he did not know what Curtis meant in his confession when he said "Dean Peacock could have prevented his unfortunate part in this enormous deception."

"I do not know what he means," he said, "unless it was that he said he could not go into the matter unless he had the cooperation of Admiral Burrage and myself. We freely gave that on the representations made to us and acted in thorough accord at all times."

Charges that he could have "prevented his unfortunate part" in the confessed deception played by Curtis were flatly denied by Dean Dobson-Peacock.

"That is not so," the minister said. "I was presented by Mr. Curtis with his story. I believed it. He told Admiral Burrage. Admiral Burrage believed it. And Colonel Lindbergh himself on the basis of the same story authorized us to act in the case."

In denying the charges, Dean Dobson-Peacock added that he still believed in the sincerity of Mr. Curtis.

"I can't understand it at all," Dean Dobson-Peacock said, "but I still believe in the sincerity of Mr. Curtis. He has been under a frightful strain for more than two months."

The Episcopal minister, who made a separate trip by air to see Colonel Lindbergh on a day when most planes were grounded because of unfavorable weather said he had never seen any actual evidence that they were dealing with the kidnapers.

When asked what were the "facts" of the story, Dean Dobson-Peacock replied "nothing more than that Mr. Curtis had been approached by the go-between and this man said he was representing the kidnapers."

Admiral Burrage, who during the activities represented by Curtis as negotiations, maintained almost complete silence, continued today to refuse to comment.

"I have no statement to make and do not anticipate making any," he said.

Mrs. Curtis is reported to be ill at her home. She has been suffernig for weeks with the nervous strain incident to the activities of her husband in the Lindbergh case.

FALSE ALARM

Denver, Col.—A neighbor saw Albert David Huizingh, young son of Albert Huizingh, drive away with a stranger in a truck and issued an alarm that the child was kidnaped. But it all panned out that young Albert had met the laundryman, asked for a ride, and made the rounds with the driver. The laundryman returned the child after half an hour. "Nobody stole me," the child explained. "I was jes' learnin' how to be a laundryman."

EIGHT RUNS IN LUCKY SEVENTH

Six Hits, 3 Walks and 3 Errors Doom Phils In Third Game

Chicago, May 17 (AP)—The Cubs blasted Ed Holley, a former teammate, from the box during an eight-run uprising in the seventh inning today to defeat Philadelphia, 9 to 4.

The Phillies led by 3 to 1 going into the seventh, but six hits, three walks and three errors gave Chicago the decision. Lance Richbourg, with four hits, and Charley Grimm, with three, led the winning attack.

Giants Lose Tight Pitching Duel, 2-1

Cincinnati, May 17 (AP)—The New York Giants literally tossed away a 2 to 1 decision to the Reds today in a tight pithing duel between Walker and Ray Kolp.

With the sore tied at 1-1 in the ninth after Bill Terry had hit his eighth homer of the season in the fourth inning, the Giants lost their chance for the winning run when Terry failed in an attempt to make a triple out of a double. Two singles followed.

In the tenth, George Granthan made his fourth hit for Cincinnati, Babe Herman was intentionally passed and then Walker made a wild throw past first on Clyde Manion's safe bunt, letting the winning run in.

AMATEUR FIGHT IDEA GROWING

Marquette Legion Post to Sponsor Series of Boxing Shows

Marquette, May 17 (AP)—The Richard M. Jopling post, American Legion, will sponsor a series of amateur boxing shows in Marquette at four to six-weeks intervals, with the date of the first card tentatively slated for Friday, June 3, T. George Hurley, secretary of the Legion boxing committee, announced yesterday.

The state athletic board has granted the Legion post a promoter's license and affiliation has been made with the Michigan association of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. All fights will be conducted under rules of the association and fighters participating in bouts must be registered with the A. A. U.

Betts, Savage Trainers

Arrangements have been made with Jim Savage and Miles Betts, of the Pla-Mor athletic club, who are perhaps better versed in the art of fisticuffs than anyone in this territory to act as coaches of amateur pugilists, and local boxers will use the Pla-Mor club for training purposes.

Ten Marquette youths already have shown promise in the ring and have appeared before the K. of C. and Elks clubs. Other talent is being sought and pugilistic candidates are urged to communicate with Mr. Hurley.

Use Local Talent

It is planned to use local talent almost exclusive'y in the first few bouts. Mr. Hurley, however, has visited Negaunee, Ishpeming, Munising and Iron Mountain and has lined up several fighters, whom he plans to match with Marquette boys later. If the bouts prove successful, the Legion will branch out and include the best upper peninsula fighters in their shows.

Under the rules of the Amateur Athletic union, bouts must last longer than three rounds, with three mintues allowed for each round. Two judges and a referee will officiate and only when the judges give a draw as their decision, is the referee empowered to extend the bout an extra round to decide the winner of the match.

Twilight League Managers Asked To Attend Meet

Representatives of teams desiring to enter the city twilight league (hard ball loop) are requested to attend a meeting at the city hall tonight for formation of the league. Officers for the year will be elected.

Among the teams expected to enter are the Trojans, West End and Necos. At least one more team is desired although others will be welcome. It is rumored that Wells will be represented.

MACK SHAKES UP HIS LINEUP

Athletics Fall on Wyatt In Seventh to Count Both Scores

Philadelphia, May 17 (AP)—Inability to hit George Earnhsaw cost the Detroit Tigers what would have been their third straight win of the season over the Athletics here today.

The big right-hander was in top form and set down the Bengals with four scattered blows, only one of which went for an extra base. Meanwhile the Macks fell upon Whitlow Wyatt in the seventh, combined three hits with an error and emerged victorious, 2 to 0.

Astute Cornelius McGillicuddy, after watching Detroit maul his Elephants two straight, made the most radical changes in his lineup and batting order so far this season.

He benched Max Bishop and Eric McNair, shifted Jimmy Dykes from third base to shortstop and put Bib Williams on second, and as a final move put Jimmy Foxx on third, with Oscar Roettger replacing the latter at first. Only Haas, Simmons and Cochrane survived the shuffling. The new combination backed Earnshaw's almost spotless performance in great style.

Big Sixth Frame

For six innings the game was a real pitchers' battle. While Wyatt was allowing the Athletics only two hits, a double by Foxx in the second and a single by Cramer in the sixth, the Tigers gathered three off Earnshaw, a single by Johnson in the second, White's double in the fourth for Detroit's only extra base hit of the day, and Rogell's single in the sixth.

Then came the big seventh. After Detroit had been retired in order, Foxx singled to left. Roettger followed with a single off Wyatt's glove and the bases were filled when, after Williams had bunted a sacrifice, Wyatt hit Foxx in the back trying for a force play at third.

Foxx and Roettger scored on Dykes' single to center. Earnshaw hit into a double play, and the scoring was ended when Wyatt tossed out Haas after walking Cramer.

Efforts of the Tigers to catch the Macks resulted in only a single by Gehringer in the ninth.

Pirates Win From Brooklyn By 3-1

Pittsburgh, May 17 (AP)—The Pirates clustered their hits off Babe Phelps in the third and fourth innings today and accumulated enough runs to beat Brooklyn 3 to 1 behind the six hit pitching of Bill Harris.

Lloyd Waner hit a homer in the third after Harris had doubled and doubles by Barbee and Suhr brought the other Pittsburgh run in the fourth.

Cleveland Bows to Yankees By 3 to 2

New York, May 17 (AP)—The Yankees steamed past the eighth stop in a run away winning streak today, beating Cleveland for the third straight day, 3 to 2, but failed to crack the American league record for scoreless in league record for scoreless innings.

Needing to hold the opposition without a marker for but one more inning to equal the record of 41 consecutive scoreless sessions set up by Cleveland 29 years ago, young Johnny Allen, who started the Yankee string of shutouts, grooved one for Earl Averill in the first inning and the Indian center fielder smashed a home run into the right field bleachers. The consecutive scoreless inning streak thereby stopped at 40.

Allen recovered to hold the Indians to seven hits but he was outpitched by Mel Harder and needed the finest sort of fielding to pull him through.

MICHIGAN TECH ENTERS MEET

14 Michigan Colleges in State Meet Friday And Saturday

East Lansing, May 17 (AP)—Fourteen Michigan colleges today filed 250 entries in the annual state intercollegiate track and field meet to be held here Friday and Saturday. The entry list is one of the heaviest in the history of the competition.

The entries revealed that Michigan Tech at Houghton will be represented at the meet for the first time. Adrian College, which usually sends a team to the competition, failed to file today.

Colleges filing entries were Kalamazoo, Western State Teachers, Michigan State, Albion, Hillsdale, Michigan State Normal, Hope, University of Detroit, Olivet, Grand Rapids Junior College, Alma, Michigan Tech, Detroit City College and Central State Teachers.

Exhibition Cancelled

Michigan State, most of the meet, led in the number of individual entries filed with 53. Michigan Normal, regarded as the favorite to retain the championship it won last year, will be represented by 48 entries while Western State, the third factor of an expected three-cornered fight for premier honors, had 31 entries. Other entries were: Detroit University 28, Olbion 18, Kalamazoo 16, Detroit City 13, Alma 10, Olivet 9, Hillsdale 8, Michigan Tech 6, Grand Rapids Junior 5, Central State Teachers 3 and Hope 2.

Ralph H. Young, head track coach at Michigan State, announced today that a scheduled four-mile exhibition featuring an attempt by Clark Chamberlain, State distance star, to break the American record had been cancelled. Freshman stars who had been counted upon to run against Chamberlain, will compete in freshman relays.

Seven schools will compete in the varsity mile relay—Kalamazoo, Western State, Michigan State, Olivet, Albion, Michigan Normal, and Detroit University. Western State, Michigan State, Grand Rapids Junior, Michigan Normal, Detroit City, and Detroit University will be represented in the half-mile and two-mile freshman relays.

Chicago White Sox Beat Boston Again

Boston, May 17 (AP)—With one of their former batteries working against them, the Boston Red Sox today dropped the third game in a row to the Chicago White Sox, 7-3.

Milton Gaston, former Red Sox hurler, worked with Charley Berry, traded to Chicago recently. Gaston was touched for 10 hits but he started four of Chicago's five double plays to choke most of the Boston rallies.

Cardinals Nose Out Boston; Score, 4-3

St. Louis, May 17, (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals knocked out two doubles and a single in the third inning today to score all the runs which gave them a 4-to-3 win over Boston in the second game of the series.

Bill Hallahan, Cardinal hurler, allowed seven hits, one of them Worthington's home run which scored Berger ahead of him in the first.

Pepper Martin, back in uniform again after an enforced absence due to a dislocated shoulder, accounted for a double which batted in two runs, a single and a walk, in four times at bat.

Washington Again Defeated By Browns

Washington, May 17 (AP)—Walter Johnson's Senators went into an eclipse after shining through the first inning today and lost their third straight game to the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 2.

Bob Burke, left hander, held no secrets in his pitching, the Browns pounding him off three hits in the first inning and cracking out six more in the fourth off him and Ragland for six runs.

Engadine Bows to Gould City, 22-3

Gould City, (Special)—Gould City made it two straight in the Central league pennant race by defeating Engadine here Sunday by the score of 22 to 3. Gould City clouted three Engadine pitchers for 29 hits. Adams pitched good ball for the visitors, the five innings that he worked, but his support was weak. Fisher and King each collected five hits, including a homer apiece. Fisher got his circuit clout in the sixth with nobody on. King's coming in the seventh with one on. Manager Holt used three pitchers also, but none were in trouble at any time. H. Fisher, White and McNeil twirled three innings each. The latter two are southpaws. Next Sunday, Holt and his crew, will go to Naubinway for a game with the Redskins.

"E" MEN GIVE FINE MATINEE

Minstrel is Excellent; Final Show this Evening

"E" men of Escanaba high school present the Red Ink Minstrel show for a second time this evening at eight o'clock in the William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium at the Junior high school. At the matinee performance yesterday afternoon the auditorium was filled with an audience that was in almost continual laughter over the gags and witty cross fire of the end men and applauded the fine dance ad musical specialties.

The show is very colorful throughout. Athletic "E" men wearing their letters form the circle, brightly costumed dancers and men, fine singing and music, all make up a show that is a decided improvement on previous minstrel performances.

The high quality of the talent in the cast makes a show studded with high spots. Vincent Bergman is a masterly interlocutor, the dancing minstrel girls present snappy and fast breaking numbers, specialties, especially Manley Anderson and Donald Norby in a surprise as "Tony and his assistant," are the sort that pull applause from the audience.

The show is under the direction of Principal John A. Lemmer with E. J. Nicholas in charge of the stage arrangements. Costumes are the work of Miss Edith Martinson, dancers were trained by Miss Elaine McDermand and the minstrel orchestra is directed by R. F. Bowers.

Reservations for seats for this evening's performance have been moving rapidly and while there still some good seats left indications point to a sell-out for the final show.

Police Hold Pair In Robbery Case

Two persons, a man and woman, were held by police yesterday for questioning in a robbery at 517 First avenue north, reported to the officers Tuesday by Mrs. Nicholas H. Walch, 222 South Tenth, owner of the property.

The missing articles, according to the police, included about $200 in currency, some valuable diamond rings, and other valuables.

Two Reno, Nev., attorneys were ordered suspended from practice for six months for offering to cut the standard price for obtaining divorces.

Efforts To Oust McLean Under Way

Washington, May 17 (AP)—Through a bank president and newspaper executives, an attempt was made today to prove that a court should remove Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, as co-trustee of the vast estate left by his father, the late John R. McLean.

The suit was filed in the District of Columbia supreme court for McLean's three minor children by the mother, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, daughter of the late Thomas Walsh, western mining magnate, who himself left millions.

Most of the day's testimony centered about the Post. Arthur D. Marks, its business manager, and Ernest S. Johnston, advertising manager, said they felt the paper had lost circulation and advertising through "unfavorable publicity" given McLean within the last two years.

A Santa Monica, Calif., barber shop set aside Thursday of each week in which to give free haircuts to boys of needy families.

SPANISH VETS GRANTED $500

Appropriation is Made For Reunion Here In July

Lansing, May 17, (AP)—The expenditure of $2,700 for the development of landing fields near St. Ignace and West Olive, Ottawa county, was authorized by the state administrative board today.

The board approved the purchase, for $6,500, of a 126 acre farm as an addition to Ionia state hospital properties. An appropriation for the reconstruction of the exercise yard at the Ionia hospital was increased $20,000.

An appropriation of $500, to aid in the expense of the Upper Peninsula Spanish War Veterans' reunion, to be held in Escanaba in July, was authorized. Senator Charles Richardson, of Marquette, had asked $1,000.

The state today entered its first agreement to participate with other depositors in the reorganization of a closed bank. A law permitting such action was enacted in the recent special session of the legislature. Upon the recommendation of Howard C. Lawrence, state treasurer, the board authorized participation with other depositors for the reopening of the Montrose State bank. The state had $5,000 on deposit in the bank.

MAN ASSERTS HE AIDED IN KIDNAP PLOT

eight months, he and five other men plotted to kidnap the Lindbergh baby. When their craft put in to land, they went to a town in Long Island, where they made the ladder to reach the nursery window.

"Baby Was Dropped"

The ladder was made in two parts and was of maple, Parzych believed. In a gray automobile, he and his companions drove to Hopewell. Parzych waited at the automobile with one or two others while the rest approached the Lindbergh house. One man climbed the ladder and stole the baby. Descending the ladder, he dropped and injured the baby.

The six men then drove away with the child. They had only gone a few miles when one thought the baby's head was cold. Another said he could not feel a heartbeat. Still another said the baby was dead.

The baby was carried some distance in from the roadside and hidden in underbrush after its clothing had been stripped off.

Parzych said he left his companions in New York and had not seen them since. He said he knew nothing of the ransom note left in the nursery or about any subsequent negotiations on the part of the kidnapers.

Parzych gave the name of the men he said were his companions. When shown a picture of one of them, he identified it.

Accident May Have Ended Woman's Life

Caro, Mich., May 17 (AP)—Sheriff James Kirk expressed the belief today that the death of Mrs. Virginia Paul, 27, found fatally wounded in a barn on her farm home near Cass City Sunday, may have been due to an accident.

The sheriff, however, was continuing his investigation. An autopsy conducted in Cass City definitely eliminated the possibility that Mrs. Paul had taken her own life. A shotgun charge that caused death entered the back of Mrs. Paul's head below the left ear. The autopsy showed that the charge had exploded inside the skull. No trace of shot was found in the barn.
